fresh perspectives

Ohio Northern Freshman experience a whole new world.

Can you please hold the elevator?" is a question heard numerous times throughout Freshmen move-in day. With multiple organizations that volunteer their Saturday to help the new Polar Bears into their dorm, excitement fills the air. Parents and students line up their cars along the access road behind the newly renovated complex and look in amazement as current students swear their cars shouting, "What room are you in?" "Founders 238," replies the freshman. There, within minutes, the cars are emptied and all of the student's personal items are sitting, neatly stacked, outside the earlier stated room number. The Greek organizations on campus are one of the many groups responsible for helping the freshman get situated into their new living arrangements. Junior Anthony Gady says, "Freshman move-in is important because it helps break the ice between the Greeks and the Freshmen families to show that we aren't the stereotypical 'Greeks.'"

Freshman move-in day is the day parents mark their calendars as "one less in the nest" and the beginning of the true Ohio Northern journey. As students begin to move all of their belongings from the hallway into their rooms, there are knocks from other returning students asking if help is needed and how their move in went. Another welcoming technique all of the returning students like to use to make the new students feel at home.

As the day progresses, a free lunch is provided for everyone. After lunch students have activities already lined up to entertain their first college weekend started. At that time, parents tend to start leaving. This is a huge step in any family's life to let a child grow up and become an independent adult. By the end of the day, looking back at the swimming of cars, helpful returning students, and a warm welcome lunch the day was a success, and not too hard after all!

Finding Your Niche

McKinney North and Plano give students a chance to find where they fit in.

Two of the most visited areas of openning weekend pages with a click click into the King Horn Spirit Center (KSSC) website. Plano, an opening event designed to be an induction for incoming freshmen, featured a scavenger hunt that gave its targets an easier people different from the Freshmen. "It was funny because there were people who made a plan because our class had to work so hard," especially, I started the scavenger hunt," sophomore Sophie Moore said.

Similarly, both new and returning students packed the hallways of King Horn before "Discovering Our Campus" organizations from the Freshmen to senior classes came together. "I was really pleased meeting people. Everyone was positive, and when we share books around you feel no choice but to go up and say 'hello,'" said Freshmen Thomas Scherzer.

The activities behind the "Discovering Our Campus" weekend included much everything from rags to coupons to cold pretzels. Such experiences give away more than just presents; they connect. Emily Baskin, a senior Marketing major and experienced Freshmen advisor, "The organizations often are too costly to cover expenses or an otherwise unappealing hobby. That way, when you get on the job, they can tell it was their club giving them that a sense of ownership toward something."

Plano's newest club adds the part of opening activities. At Plano, Freshmen gathered over groups of three to play a game. Students could sign up with their "Big Brothers" and all the other Freshmen were invited to complete. When it came to his own activities, sophomore Taylor Koenig began saying, "I was really going to do some sort of scavenger hunt, like a treasure hunt, and then there was this, and then we were back around just the great brothers, and I was thinking to myself 'they are what I will think'."

Fun and free stuff was only part of a bigger picture in the opening activities. Discovering and Plano aimed to get students to connect to campus. "Some of the people you meet at Plano, and the organizations you get involved with as a result of these activities, those individuals will be the ones that you meet here later on in life," says Baskin, "and that's really what opening weekend is all about. Making new people as a whole team."

so you're more likely to encourage others to come to college by your side." Taylor Koenig, Freshmen advisor for the Marketing department, adds, "All of our clubs at Plano have a lot of fun activities all throughout the year." Freshmen advisor for the Business department, Emily Baskin, adds, "Discovering Our Campus" is a great opportunity for students to make new friends and learn more about the school. "It's a great opportunity to be connected with all the great clubs in Plano," she says. "It's a great opportunity to learn more about the school and what it has to offer."

Greekapalooza Provides Potential New Greeks with Games, Food, and Fun.

When coming into college, most freshmen have no idea about which organization to join. Some are interested in sports, while others participate in service organizations. No matter what someone is interested in, Greek Life is also there as an option.

Greekapalooza usually takes place the first weekend back on campus. All of the social organizations and fraternities gather together on the quad to provide new students with games, food, and information about what Greek Life has to offer. Being a member of Greek Life during their freshman year is very rewarding. Talking to potential new members, especially for that time Greek members who have not yet been through this process, never because a person can say lots of nice things but hopefully one day call them a brother or sister. Junior Madison Morris talks about her favorite part of Greekapalooza by saying "the atmosphere of having all of Greek Life bonding together to hold a productive event was the most rewarding." The newer members in Greek Life get a first hand experience this year by learning to meet the new students and talk to them about what Greek Life has to offer.

One of the best parts of being on the Greek side of Greekapalooza this year was having a chance to show off my pride for being in Greek life to the new freshmen and hopefully making a good impression their first weekend here. I liked seeing all the enthusiasm the new students brought to campus' and sophomore making major Courtney Hansen.

Overall, the new students and the Greek members had a fun experience with this years Greekapalooza. These festivities will carry on for years to come in hopes of welcoming students about the wonderful experience of being involved in Greek Life.

"One of the best parts, was having a chance to show off my pride for being in Greek life to the new freshmen and hopefully making a good impression their first weekend here."

Farewell, Dr. Baker!

OMU Celebrates Dr. Baker's time as President and thanks him for his Dedication

It has been many years since President Mrs. Baker came to Adams. The last time Mrs. Baker was president, I think it was the mid-1980s. She has not been to our school since then, and our school has changed a lot. The President App. will celebrate anniversary what about it changes in our school students gradually come to the Hong Kong Home Exchange to the continuation of Hong Kong government. They taught us how to every student, so they could write their own program the conclusion.

When the Party arrived, the leadership of students stood up and named the name of the national anthem and saluted the national flag when they were handed to the host country. Each country's national anthem different, especially the National Emblem of the United States. Some of the groups included Czech, India, Vietnam, France, Italy, the Arctic department, and the Macau and so forth.

President Baker has done several on other activities throughout his tenure. Among them would right some important activities, including the annual torch relay, the sports competition, and the Macau building and the year game. The Macau National Center which was established upon his arrival in 1984 has also had a great influence on the science department. President Baker stated in his final farewell speech that he would continue to stand the Macau games because he has wanted to get to know about the science games he has been on this campus. He reached placed the paper that survival rate very result and said it has been a wonderful close time companion.

The 2011 school year will be full of challenges including new committee for visiting presidents. However, these challenges may be the best because the strong commitment to the continuing a life of the old and the old. President and Mrs. Baker will be remembered by all of the students, and they will always be there whenever we will always be remembered.

She's Got Talent

A Behind-the-Scenes Look at What One Student Does to Make Sure Homecoming is a Success

Homecoming was a time of year at Northern that is exciting for all, from the alumni who return to see the changes it has undergone and their old college friends to the current students who engage in Spirit Week activities to cheer on their Polar Bear and根号根号 participate this year's Homecoming games, parade and, of course, the crowning of the King and Queen. But for others like Libby Galbreath, it is the organization of months of hard work.

Galbreath was the 2010 Homecoming student chair, a role she received after working her way up from a committee member to a committee chair and finally to the role of Student Chair. Though Homecoming is the poster child for Homecoming events, appear rest right; the work really begins the summer year before when Libbreath and the committee chairs meet with Senior Class Presidents and the staff of Student Affairs to decide on the Homecoming theme and the tailgate games. This theme—NU's Last Stand—was a suggestion from the Alumni Affairs staff because of Michael Bublé's famous contestants on America's Got Talent—a performance at the Freed Center Homecoming last year. "The student chairs all loved it so we ran with it," says Galbreath.

Work began for Galbreath and the other committee chairs in the three weeks leading up to Homecoming Saturday, as Homecoming Crew voting and sales of t-shirts and sweatshirts commenced. Survey-it was early for Homecoming day itself, a day which started at 7 AM for Galbreath when she "picked up her golf cart" which was her transportation for the day. After stopping by Alumni registration at McKeen's, she headed back to the football field to check on tailgate decorations. Following this, it was time to set up for the Homecoming Parade at the old Ada High School to put messages and bumpersticker on members of the Homecoming Court and make sure that all the floats were in the appropriate order. When the parade started, Galbreath headed back to the tailgates to make sure that games were running smoothly and to wait for halftime of the football game to announce the 2010 Homecoming King and Queen. Shalene Andrade and Cara Schroeder were the winners this year and were announced to the crowd during halftime. After that she "took a deep breath and enjoyed the rest of the game."

After a smooth Homecoming Saturday and Spirit Week, Galbreath noted the importance of having effective planning skills to be able to balance the responsibilities of Student Chair with six days' work, though a strong group of committee chairs made the duration that much easier. But, all of the hard work, planning, and balancing was made worth it by seeing all of a come together after 11 months in the form of Spirit Week and Homecoming Saturday and proving that like all Northern students, Libby's talent is genuine!

"The student chairs all loved it, so we ran with it!"

Break Away

ONU Students Break the Mold and Do Spring Break Differently

Each year students look forward to enjoying a nice week off of school for spring break in a place other than Asia. Some students travel across states, some take cruises, and write emails and go home no sooner than winter quarter finally being over. However, now more than ever they go, they will always have interesting stories to share when they return to campus. This year many students traveled all over the country to get away from the small town life. Jamie Amy Gillman went with her family to Utah to climb Powder Mountain. Karen and Steve Brown Gillman says that she and her family have been going there every winter since she has been old enough. A typical day on her vacation included "sking & snowboarding" days or just snow and spending days at Salt Lake City sightseeing. "Usually days we would ski from 10:00 (am) drive back to our condo eat dinner and go to the hot tub every night to help our sore muscles." Gillman says her family has already made arrangements to go back during the 2013 season.

Traveling to a completely opposite part of the country, a few brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon and Delta Piota were on a carnival cruise to Key West and Cozumel as a release from school work. They went on a cruise last year and decided to make this an annual event. A day on the cruise ship included "swimming on the beach and the girls went to about every show tourist store we could find" says junior Kelsay Black. "The best part was the nights, running around the ship with everyone else.

Taking a different approach to spring break adventures comes Heather Sanders marveled with her team across seas to Japan as a graduation present. A repeat day on her vacation did not include normal events such as swimming or shopping. They did include "surfing in a saltwater surfing destination and shopping in the upscale shops, as well as going to the Blue Lagoon spa." Heather said her favorite part of the whole vacation was spending time with her aunt and reviewing an hour long book at the spa. When asked if she would travel back to Japan, her response was "Absolutely! I would love to visit during the summer months to see the pandas and whale watching."

Sometimes the university has the students go different places for various events throughout spring break. That was University Singers were on tour for the entire week of break. They toured in California and stopped at two places along the way before finally reaching Ft. Lauderdale Beach, Florida. While in Florida, the group stayed in Kissimmee and sang at three concerts at different venues and on their day off they got to go to Disney land and spend time at Disney world.

Spring break trips are always a fun adventure and a great way to relax after a tough winter quarter and finals week. No matter where students are headed and where vacation turns into actual afternoons. No matter where students go, they will always have fun traveling and seeing different places.

So Happy Together

Family Day and Lil' Skin Weekend Give ONU Students a Chance to See Their Loved Ones and Share a Little Bit of the Northern Fun With Them

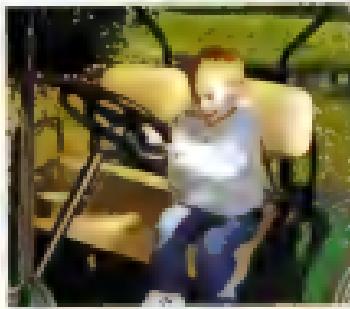

Parents and siblings of students always enjoy returning to campus to spend a weekend with their son or daughter. Many fall the campus hosts families (families where parents relocate and spend the day with their child and attend the same pharmaceuticals). Heather Pender, and Mrs. Baker open up their home so the parents can have a taste of what it's like. After the tour is over, students and parents make their way over to the end of the Blauer Tower and enjoy a meal with other families. Because of the band's early show time, they will go straight to the football stadium to watch the ONU football team play. Spending the day with family is something because then the parents can see campus and experience a day there, much like a field trip.

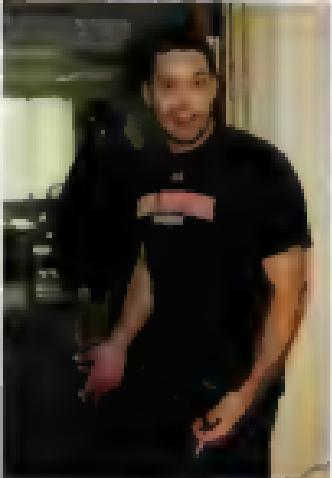

Another fun event that the university holds is Silver & Gold Weekend. This is a one filled weekend where the younger as well as older siblings of students can come and even spend the night with their brother or sister. The theme for this year's Silver & Gold Weekend was "Campus Life" which included many activities that centered around a camp theme. Activities include the residents upon arriving to campus and from those days you go bonding and plan. Building a fire, frisbee, Throwing NPI, provided weapons for everyone to have the best day activities were over. The weekend events included a potluck breakfast, a carnival, build a fireman, and marching. A flag race with two teams with the most wins winning.

Both of these weekends are fun for the parents, siblings, and students to bond and enjoy many activities together. It is really the change in seasons, the weather, for a new environment, and all together to be fun filled experiences.

More Than a Way to Pay the Rent

Jeremy Ebert finds more than job satisfaction in his role as Head Resident of Limo Complex.

Whether you are a freshman experiencing college life for the first time or a seasoned on-campus resident, there are a select group of individuals many people who work hard to make sure "home away from home" is as comfortable as possible. Resident Assistants, or RAs, are the backbone of every residence hall and apartment complex. Many first-time RAs enjoy the job so much that they continue to be involved throughout their college careers.

Jeremy Ebert, head resident of Limo Complex and a P.A., decided to become an RA after his Freshman year in Maguire Hall.

I had a tremendous experience with the RAs at my floor my Freshman year," Ebert states. "Mr. RA kept us all in order but he also participated in the granite video games and movies of Maguire Hall."

Ebert has turned his good experience into three years of working as RA. In addition to being an RA during the summer, he has been the RA of Freshmen SRA for Maguire and is currently the Head Resident of Limo Complex.

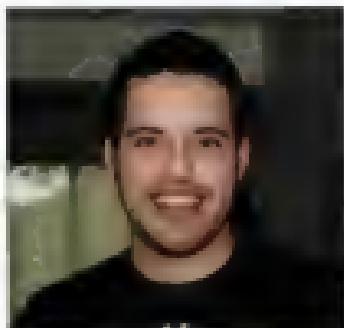

Ebert finds more than just job satisfaction in his current position as a Head Resident. "Most of my closest friends are RAs and I believe that is a testament to the communi-building nature of ResLife." What being in charge of one RA and over three hundred residents, Ebert has learned how to help people in times of need as well as deal with academic, personal, and social residential issues situations. Through helping others, he has also personally benefited through learning managerial and organizational skills.

The Residence Life staff organizes many activities over the course of the year. One of the favorite traditions, Mad Volleyball, has proven to be a hit, and gives new students a chance to bond and have some good fun.

And being involved in the largest student-led campaign over the last weekend of the year is another clear reflects, and doing such great things is quite the accomplishment."

Resident Assistants are the first people you meet when you arrive on campus your Freshman year. They have an immediate impact, and they strive to always make that impact a positive one. Not only do RAs help to accommodate a growing experience for residential students, but they make personal gains as well. Jeremy Ebert has improved the overall quality of residence life, and the experiences of his peers have helped him find himself.

"Most of my closest friends are RAs, and I believe that is a testament to the community building nature of ResLife."

Dozens of Religious Organizations on Campus Adequately Fulfill the Spiritual Needs of ONU Students

Being a Methodist affiliated university, religion plays a big role at Ohio Northern on campus and students etc. There are many groups that students can participate in such as Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Kappa Phi, Newman Club, Agape, Alpha Chapter, and many more. One of the organizations to work throughout the years for religion purposes is CFCU. "I Chapel Staff & Staff takes no time each week, to plan events. It's all off their main calendar plus planning the Chapel services each week, on Wednesdays at 11 am. These events include leading a group of peers to speak at each Chapel Friday sessions to sing and lead the worship service and planning the food that they serve after Chapel." All the Chapel singing groups come and perform and then we also have different groups back the Chapel events. For example, half-quarter of the year was Festival Arts, and sophomore Stephen Apa, the Chapel Staff's program coordinator.

Stephen explains that the Chapel Staff takes time to plan the Fall (CFCU) and the Lenten Park the Chapel happens every fifth week of the quarter at 10 pm. The staff's goal is to get more people in the Chapel to work together. He likes to do a quiet walk on the hillside. People can come and walk the hillside which allows them to take time for reflection and prayer. There are stations containing devotional that students and faculty can stop and contemplate on. Other aspects that the staff has produced include Homecoming and movie nights.

The caring part of Chapel Staff is the meetings we have with each other and the way we care to discuss other life problems. I look at myself like I Chapel Staff members as family now and when I'm having a bad day, I know I can go to them and they will help me through it.

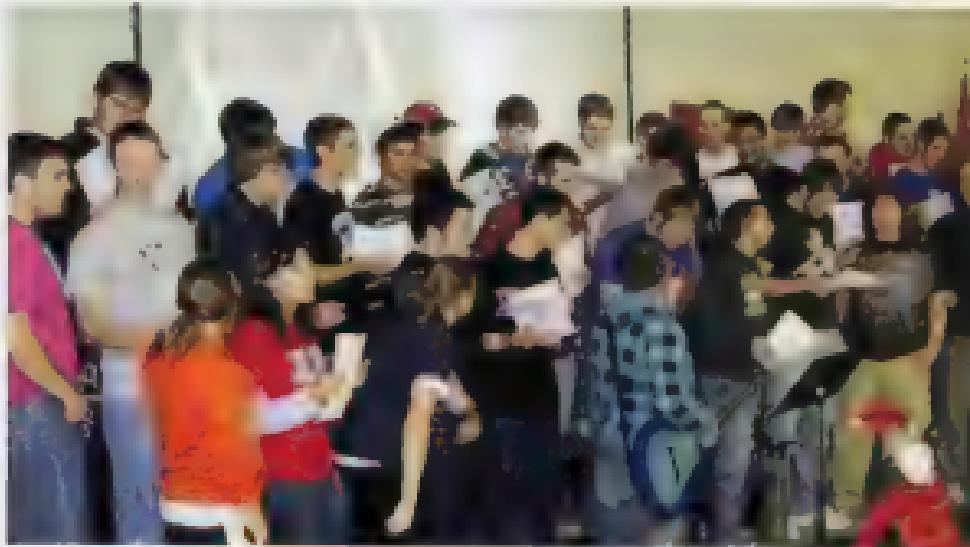

Apapa said, "They have helped me grow in my faith, because, despite what the world and society gives, it is a support system that I don't have before. Being a member of Chapel Staff, I never have ever wondered about Chapel." CFCU annual events included ice cream and snowball fights. My gates or west if I fall in love with it, it's perfect because there is no questioning that love on Mayday.

Religious play a large role at Ohio Northern despite the university's small size. The percentage of students who claim to follow their religion and not others is over 80% the same religious beliefs and values. Religious organizations will continue to provide and give opportunities in the community as well as provide fun and meaningful experiences for ONU students. Whether you're the person who attends chapel every week, pledged Kappa Phi and had an individual study break to visit the library, you have been impacted by ONU's religious life in one way or another.

"I look at my fellow Chapel Staff members as family now, and when I'm having a bad day I know I can go to them and they will help me through it."

As One Unit

Loving God

Being in God's kingdom going out to others, and sharing the love that God has for humans, is what brings the STHI and Kappa Phi brothers to be most important. Our goals are to make many experiences known on campus as both religious groups that provide service and social outings. Friends, fun, growth, and God.

As religious groups, Kappa Phi and STHI participate in many of the same social activities.

One of the ways that STHI gives back is by providing meals at chapels, services, CNU, and other events. We have a great group of guys that put in Arribada Days, where we provide meals to prison inmates, women, and through various Radio Station volunteer food drives. Many local Christian religious outreaches that both Kappa Phi and STHI do are youth summer camps, NFW, 4-H, Birthdays, Nights, and small group meetings.

Service activities other than our main events on the Sigma Theta Gamma and Kappa Phi Beta organizations' calendar is important to provide service for our campus, community, and ultimately the world. This year STHI hosted many service projects like a monthly canned food drive, a benefit concert for Japan, and a big assist for charity. Additionally, Sigma Theta Gamma had a wonderful help Camp Oberlin, a Methodist camp/ministries kids program for the summer. Kappa Phi also sponsored their own of service events. The sisters open their sewing projects to raise money for those sponsor child heroes. They partnered with local Missionaries to raise money for the Arribada prison and their local neighborhood children. Parker

Even though these men and women are passionate individuals for God and spend much of their time finding ways to serve others, they also provide a great sense for the STHI community in general. STHI works off of the idea with the Christian Fellowship. This year the guys initiated "New Years" parties each September. Additionally, the third year STHI has a girls club with all the same parts - a new one on 2nd Annual New Year's Movie for Females Day. The Sisters Kappa Phi Marques formed the annual Taekwondo and Taekwondo.

STH and KPhi are about loving God and being with your best friends all at the same time." God is the ultimate answer to our many questions the two organizations.

"STE and KP are about serving God and being with your best friends all at the same time!"

OBU Students Work Hard at Their Campus Jobs While Still Finding Time to Hit the Books

What do the Heserell Memorial Library, the mail room, and the Freed Center for Performing Arts all have in common? They are all places that would not be able to function without the help of their student workers. Approximately 20% of students at Ohio Northern University have an on campus job and it's no surprise considering how much work there is to be done at the library, mail room, and Freed Center alone.

When most students think of the library they think mainly of two things: the quiet place in which they can study and the place that will loan them DVDs for free. However, there is much more going on than would be possible without the help of the student library assistants. A typical hour at work for a student library assistant (SLA) consists of the usual library jobs such as checking books in and out, processing books, shelving, cataloging, and shelf reading. SLAs are also responsible for answering and lending the books to and out to other schools through OCLC and, as well as inquiring the incoming OCLC materials. Sophomore Sarah Runkel stated, "I love to shelf read. It's extremely satisfying to find a book that is out of place. It's like, 'oh! I found you!'" With so many different tasks to do, work at the library is never boring despite the stereotypes.

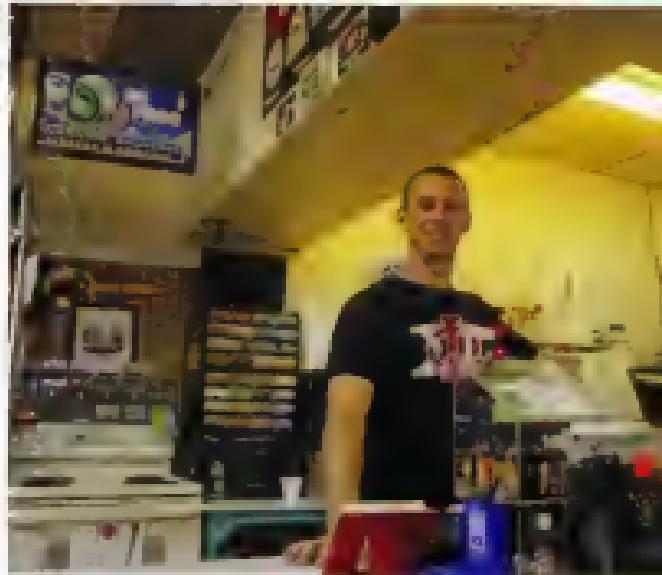

Another employer of students on campus is the mail room, which is often overlooked. A typical hour of work here can vary depending on the section of the mail room. According to its most accounting major, Jared Oehler, who works in the faculty section, there is plenty to be done. First he sorts all of the faculty mail into the correct categories. Then he reads "hub up" the outgoing mail so that it can be delivered to different departments. For Jared, the experience of having an on campus job has been very beneficial. He stated, "This experience has been beneficial to me because it teaches me time management. I committed to working at the mail room so I have to find time for that in between classes and football."

A third place where one can see justified student employment is the Freed Center for Performing Arts. There is so much work to be done in preparation for the various shows. Student employees are involved in everything from costume design and set piece construction, to lights, and sound board management. Sophomore Joseph Blakera, one of the Freed Center's sound engineers, spends most of his time at work setting up the sound board so that it can be run by any one who works there. It's a fast paced job with a lot of responsibility, but according to Joseph, that's his favorite part. "My favorite part is the challenge. Working with sound you always have to be on your toes during a show." During the week of a show, Joseph can be seen working up to 90 or 100 hours per week. Even though every hour is worth it now as a music and theatrical theater production double major, he is gaining invaluable experience for his future.

Whether they do it for the paycheck, work experience, or any other reason, any student who has an on campus job is directly impacting the campus. Their time management and dedication enables them to work on top of a full course load which in return benefits the students, staff, faculty, and campus community.

"I committed to working in the mail room, so I have to find time for that in between classes and football."

Off-Campus Jobs Teach ONU Students Valuable Work Ethic and Interpersonal Skills

As most students are settling down at their desks for the night with a five pound textbook and a can of Pringles, a select few are putting on their aprons and apron-chain gloves in preparation for a night of deep-fries and pizza grease. Off-campus jobs are not for everybody, but some ONU students find that getting away from campus a few nights a week and connecting with new people can be an enjoyable and rewarding experience.

Sophomore Charley Hager, Daley Woodside, and Kaitlin Owsley as well as freshman Terri Army are employed by the famous Golden Arches. They have committed their extra time to serving their peers, professors, and local residents.

Working at McDonald's can be extremely demanding and even frustrating at times," says sophomore Terri Army. Daley Woodside, "Getting work hours matched with class is the hardest part." sophomore Charley Hager adds, "but at the end of an eight hour shift, I feel like I've done some good in the world. It really is a rewarding job," Woodside concludes. Combined, these four ONU students provide the world's favorite fast food restaurant with about 100 hours of service per week.

While McDonald's may be the most popular food joint in town, it's not the only one that employs ONU students. Aditi Mehta, a junior Mechanical Engineering major spends her extra hours as a cashier at the Jiffy Lube. "I get a new car and the insurance went up,"

Mehta states, "and since I can't get a job on campus, I had to find one in town." Many students struggle to find work that qualifies for jobs on campus, and must instead turn to Asia in the pursuit of some extra spending money, as Mehta does.

One of the top spots to spend a Friday night in Adis is Viva Maria, the local Italian restaurant. Nick Chignetti, a sophomore Chemistry major has worked here for three months. "It takes a getaway from the stress of classes and homework. The employees there are like another family," Chignetti remarks. Based on his experience, Chignetti would encourage any ONU student to pursue an off-campus job. "When we all graduate, work in the real world is going to be much different from any other work people have done at the university. We need to learn the culture of a minimum wage job." While the experience of a minimum wage job is beneficial to Chignetti's future employment, it has also been a humbling experience for him. "I worked at retail and in food-service. It has taught me patience and respect. It's never as easy as it looks."

While off-campus jobs are demanding, student workers often find them worthwhile and a great experience on the long run. These jobs give hard-working ONU students a chance to getaway from the university and view Asia from a different perspective. They get the opportunity to interact with the public, gain valuable skills, and learn everlasting work ethic for the future.

"It offers almost a getaway from the reality of classes and home-work. The employees there are like another family."

SPC Never Fails to Provide OnU Students with Free and Fun Entertainment

The Student Programming Committee (SPC) is a service SPC team which helps plan the organization's events. Members who provide the SPC services are volunteers, by enthusiasm and passion that the members bring with them. This committee works with the UNL community to bring fun and entertainment to the UNL campus. A majority of events focus on all areas of student involvement. Therefore, SPC has successfully expanded our event offerings in terms of sports, arts, culture and students. Having full quarter long planned events.

Our events include:

Show Time, including events such as: The Price is Right, Clash of the Titans, The Amazing Race, Theater production, to become more involved with our community and has organized several volunteer projects along the way, such as: Love Matters for Humanity. Students will able to come together to raise money, time, throughout the quarter. I think it's great that SPC has started to become more involved with our community because it's a great cause.

Entertainment includes: dance, drama, theater, music, comedy, and other various performances. These performances are important, as helping our community. The peers were asked, "What's different, but a culture makes SPC living Quarter over the years, students can tell?" said Marissa Henderson, a sophomore marketing major.

In October, their welcomed 23 new members.

For Winter Quarter, the events we have planned include: Disney's Holiday kick-off, game night, students Fall neighborhood parties and the annual dress up costume to see Holiday Lights. They also planned a New Year's celebration, Valentine's Day, and a Valentine's Day, smaller dinner, dance, and activities. Overall, Henderson red and white. What's not to like this year? The variety and quality of events that SPC has offered this year is phenomenal. I am really looking forward after the holidays, and Marissa Henderson a junior. The Mid-Valley and Campus Leader Henderson said, "The Mid-Valley and Campus Leader, the peers were asked, "What's different, but a culture makes SPC living Quarter over the years, students can tell?" said Marissa Henderson, a sophomore marketing major. In November, SPC will host its annual Thanksgiving Turkey Trot, featuring the turkey and at least a dozen other fun free

"The variety and quality of events that SPC has offered this year are phenomenal. I actually get upset when my schedule doesn't allow me to attend all of the events." Marissa Henderson, junior

How often do you work out?

I have to exercise 5-7 times a week, as my schedule permits.

Where is your favorite place to work out?

The green meadow. It's perfect for running or rollerblading, especially in the spring!

Why is physical fitness important to you?

I would have to argue that exercise is the best stress reliever there is.

Do you follow a specific workout routine?

I try and do cardio every day, and I also alternate arms and legs. Variety is what keeps it interesting.

Is there any special music you like to listen to while working out?

Mostly club music, rap, and anything that has a good beat. I also like alternative and punk.

Is there anything else you do besides exercising to maintain your health?

Opportunity for All

There's a place for everyone in Ober Northern bands.

The Ober Northern bands are groups for all students to participate in. There are multiple sections in the band and they are all open to every student on campus. None of the bands are limited to music majors or musicians with a certain skill level. Any student of any age, major, and talent level is encouraged into the bands. Students also do not have to participate in every section of band to be involved. Students are allowed to participate in as many bands as they please. The different sections of Ober Northern bands are marching band, field orchestra, symphony band, steel drum band, jazz band, new music ensemble, pep band, symphonic orchestra, woodwind ensemble, and brass ensemble. The fact that all the bands are not exclusive to just music majors is a big selling point for the bands. It's Greg Raup, the marching band director. "The different majors of people involved are what makes [the band] so diverse."

The bands perform at different places around campus throughout the school year. The marching band performs at home football games, area parades, band festivals and other special events throughout campus. The marching band, jazz band, wood orchestra also travel around the world to perform. The marching band traveled to Montana this year to perform in the half-time show at a Canadian football game. Then they also traveled to Germany to perform over spring break.

All of the bands hold events and performances throughout the year that are open to all students and faculty to view.

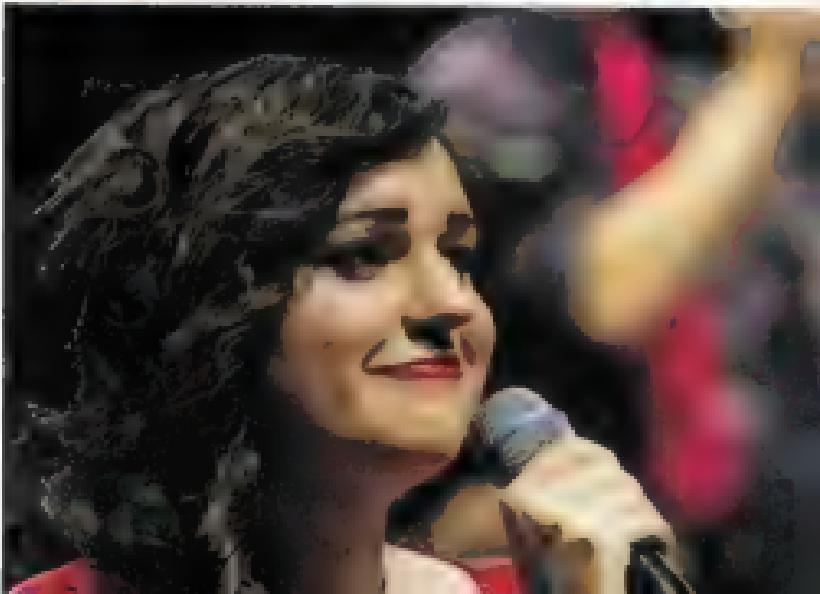

Band members have mentioned that Pasadena Baker and her husband are very supportive of the bands. They attend the football games and perform regularly to cheer on and support the bands. In fact, the marching band even presented them with special marching band packets at the last marching band concert to thank them for their support and involvement.

"Being in the band allowed me to meet new people that shared my passion for music."

Moreover, students participate at the different variations of band at Ober Northern & normally winter year. It is a popular activity in the school that allows students to meet more new people and perform with them throughout the school year.

Ohio Northern University
Men's Chorus and Women's Chorus

Loud and Proud

2010-2011 Has Proved to be a Year of Choir Heaven.

It's been an exciting year to be a singer! The music department was buzzing with activity as ONU students committed time and effort to share the gifts of their voices.

University Singers, conducted by Professor Dr. Ron Kratzel Director of Choral Activities, is a men's concert choir that has been in existence since 1971. This year, the professional group took trips to the Cheagoland area for a fall tour as well as Florida for a spring tour. Hannah Berlin sophomore voice, education and piano major as well as also vocal leader of Singers says the [had] such great fun to have and time everyone in University Singers. They are my [her] second family and [she] is supposed to be a part of a choir filled with such talented people. University Singers is a nice group of people committed to music as well as love and respect for each other. Devin Bailey, senior organizational communication major adds, "Singers [offers] a great way to express yourself by singing and you can make lasting friendships."

The women's choir, another group of eight hand selected, conducted by Professor Singers, also had a wonderful year! Traveling around Ohio doing gigs at Waynesboro Hall and Pogue, the group of eight sang and entertained! Doing fun arrangements such as "For all We Know," "Rescue Me," and "Unchained Melody," every concert offers a mix of pieces ranging from the old to present day. Miriam Steiner, sophomore vocal performance major and one of the new members this year explains, "I love Northernites because we all love to sing which has to perform!" The group has great fun singing and off Beat Taylor performances. Business and personal reasons say that Northernites allows [her] to sing more. I love with committed people where I judge!" Steiner adds, "We make great music, and we have a blast doing it!"

The voices of Ohio Northern students also sang loud and proud for both Men's Chorus, directed by Dennis Kastner, and Women's Chorus, directed by Dennis Kastner, and Women's Chorus, directed by Dennis Kastner. Dennis Kastner, a tenor, organizational communication major adds, "Singers [offers] a great way to express yourself by singing and you can make lasting friendships." These two groups sing every week to some relatives and sing a week to a church a tour of mass and other local church concerts throughout the year. Men's Chorus traveled around the Columbus area for a ten titled tour in the spring where they performed in other enthusiastic concerts. One of the significant accomplishments of Women's Chorus this year was their participation in a local Benefit concert to raise money for a woman with cancer.

Other vocal groups at ONU include a cappella ensemble like the Madrigal Ensemble, an encompassing Capella Ensemble, and a Rutherford Quartet. Performing on and off campus, these groups bring about extra opportunities for vocal talent to be shared.

This year there have been harmonies and melodies around every corner. ONU has had another successful year of vocal music!

Twenty Years

Strong

From Classical Music Theatres to Contemporary Plays, the Freed Center Never Disappoints

Twenty years of producing shows and the Freed Center for the Performing Arts is still producing shows. With a great year set during the 2010-2011 school year, the students and staff of the Freed Center presented 1354, with spectacular shows for their 20th anniversary season. With a consistent audience for each performance, the season gave the community headliners like Jack Hanna and the Jim Romeos. During the annual homecoming event, six musical theater students (senior Castle Rea, senior Shane Duffy, and sophomores Derek Breaker, Caitlin Hamm, Robert Egan, and Taylor Schmid) had the opportunity to open for American Idol winner, Seal. I. Headliners range from musicals like Wicked, Annie, The Lion and the Witch, Phantom, Phantom presented the community with a night event filled with Operas performed with the UPA's Symphonic Orchestra.

"To open for Seal! He was such a great experience," sophomore, Caitlin Hamm said. "It felt amazing to be the opening act for a concert. To have such a huge event in the Freed Center was a thrill."

Other headliners for the season included the Karmen Chamber Chorale and Anthony Zerbe with his presentation on the Art of Dance with Mirrors. Anthony Zerbe also took time during break to help the theater students perfect their monologue audition pieces.

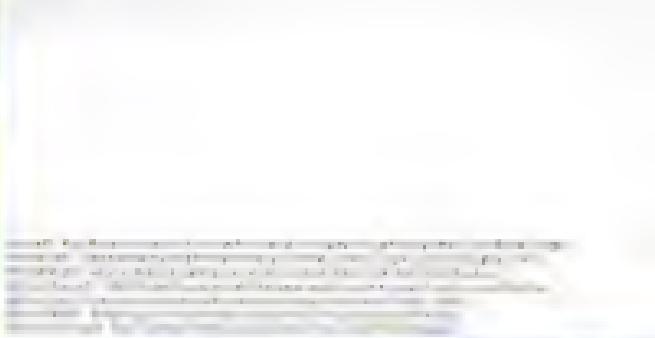

As for drama, the UPA's Drama Company had the privilege to tour domes and perform over 50 to the Greater and River North Chicago. Both drama companies performed two shows during their play and additionally, with the help of the Freed Center reached out to their community to bring in

The drama company were given training and experience for the 2010 drama company sophomore musical theater major Gina Lee said. "To perform next to talented drama is a great way that the department fulfills its mission of being dramatic."

The UPA's drama department had many shows in on their students' show. Beginning these productions are William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet starring cast; the role of Romeo's wife Andrew Kaligis senior theater major, Megan Ferris senior theater and dance major, and Lauren Schubert sophomore musical theater major took the lead roles of Giulietta, Lauretta and Ophelia. The show was directed by guest director Matthew Barnes. This brought in a guest actor for the show. Having more than 50 performances every show under its belt, junior Taylor Loprin played the role of Robert for the production of West. Margaret Gerome sophomore musical theater major played the lead role of Katherine Rumens 23 year old daughter. The 5th International Plus Festival took place with a concentration on the Native American culture. The focus of the year centered on Garryn Young, senior musical theater major and Castle Rea, lead in the two person musical It's Just Five Bars. Working with John Haaske for a few years, the Freed Center presented his new research exhibit. This event packed was associated with the class and focused by Raymond Hargrove, chairman.

"The season was a good mix of all types of theater from classical musical theater to contemporary plays, that gave everyone in the department a chance to participate and watch something that they like and can relate to," said Sarah Loman, freshman musical theater major.

The View From Abroad

ONU Students appreciate new cultures as they study in foreign countries.

From the summer of 2010 to spring of 2011, there have been roughly 40 students that have gone abroad through one of ONU Northern's programs. These students have seized the opportunity to travel to different parts of the world and take more than just grades in their majors. The purpose of studying abroad is to further educate students by putting them in their environment so that they can learn and even teach the material they have been presented with while growing, as a person, and experiencing a new culture. Sabrina Widman, senior international studies & Spanish major, studied abroad in 2009 and went to San Jose, Costa Rica. Widman explained, "I started with a host family and attended classes at the university there. I traveled all over the country and visited both the Caribbean and Pacific coasts."

Studying in another country can lead a person to discover new opportunities, such as learning or practicing a new language and experiencing a completely different culture. Chase Rodriguez, a fourth year pharmacy student, has also studied in Costa Rica and she felt it was a wonderful academic opportunity. "Studying abroad was a worthwhile experience for me because I was able to consolidate my knowledge of Portuguese and Spanish and practice using Spanish medical terms, nothing with local Spanish speakers," Chase explained.

In addition to some academic advantages of studying abroad, leadership and service are also important components of some students' trips. Several music education majors, William Harrel, both learned and taught while she was in Tallinn, Estonia. While she studied at the International School of Estonia, she also taught music to first through eighth graders as well as chamber and choir classes. The Estonians have not made linguistic shifts after changing what they do. "It was the best experience I have ever had, and I know it every day. Who knew that I'd go to Estonia to change lives and ended up having my life changed instead?"

Although studying abroad has its pros and cons, cultural and personal growth has a far greater rate of unique value and benefits on students. Rock climbing, zip-lining, rock climbing, ziplining, shopping and sunbathing are just a few of the ways to have fun while studying abroad, and ONU students have achieved all of them. From the Plaza of the Sun in Cusco, Peru to the Beihang University of Management Translation Square in Beijing, China, the sightseeing is also breath-taking.

Overall, students who study abroad gain a lot of credit personal growth, the joy of immersing oneself in a new culture, the chance to meet, sacrifice without many new people in the world in mind of travel, more, and surely so much more. Studying abroad can be an unforgettable college experience for anyone who achieves it, and definitely worth pursuing.

A Terrific View

ONU Honors the academic achievements of students at all levels.

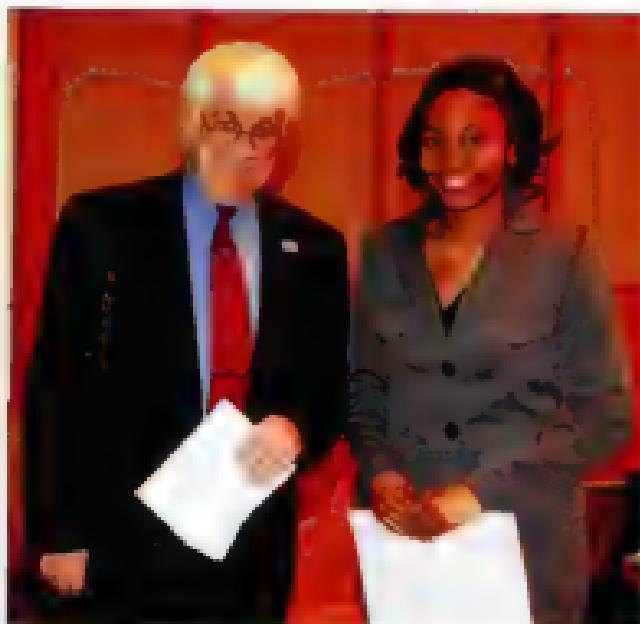

Each year students are recognized for their academic accomplishments by being asked to participate in Homecoming at Ohio Northern University. The purpose of Homecoming is to usher students into the honorary organizations and give the third year pharmacy students their white coats. This year Homecoming took place on Saturday, May 12th in the King Hall field house. Leading the homecoming procession was the ONU Wind Ensemble, which was conducted by Dr. Thomas Hart. Jason Alyssa Neeble played in the band and stated, "Senior Student Wind Ensemble. I had no part in the competition in the morning. Then there's a luncheon, the procession in which group I satiated our new members. They're the best! Homecoming is so much fun and awards for the various departments afterwards. My three favorite parts about it are the luncheon part because I get to play my instrument, the awards, and the parade."

The luncheon was led by Chapman Hansen Lubala and David W. Keppler. Kendall Baker presided the induction for the program. Associate Professor of Pharmacology and Civil Rights Dr. Fred Kunkelberg gave the official address for the ceremony with following remarks by Karen Sherratt, President of Nurses Council. The induction of Honorees, Members and Interns was lead by Carolyn Jacobs, editor for induction of Honors Faculty. The Reproduced from Journal of personality and social psychology, 4, 1966, pp. 1-12.

A huge part of the Honors Day celebration was the third year Pharmacy students reciting their white coats. This is a major accomplishment for them because they are finally in all professional pharmacy classes for their remaining two years of OSU! The present speech talked about the student's feelings and how it compared to the third year. Each student was told they need characteristics like the qualities listed and others when they are going to have a role through life. Dr. Karen Mitchell explained how the ceremony was established. One last year will get to go on stage with a mentor who has accomplished much taken a lot of advice from or someone we stay close too in pharmacy. They either had to be a pharmacist or an older pharmacy student. When we were onstage they helped us put on our white coat and we got to share hugs with some important people in the world of pharmacy. After everyone got the honor of all three, the math of each class, and the ceremony was concluded.

Housing dues are additional expenses to pay upon admission to college and there is additional dues for all three college campus. This fee will always be looked forward to by students and faculty alike.

Just the Beginning

The 2011 Ohio Northern Graduates Recite Their Pledge Here With Only the Start of Their Lives

It has been a long road. Finally on May 22nd, hundreds of students were able to call themselves college graduates. It's an accomplishment no one can claim, and those that achieve the graduate status will be forever grateful for their time spent at college.

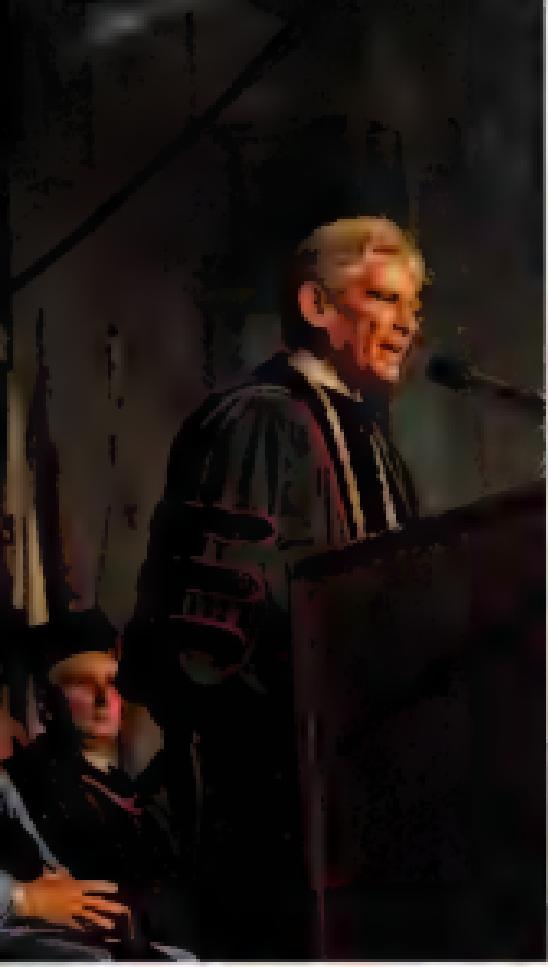

For graduates of Ohio Northern, commencement means something more than graduation. It means a commitment that means "the beginning." For some students the start of a promising future whether it's a career in pharmacy, business, law or theater. For others, graduation marks the start of something further as they go onto graduate school to become physician doctors, lawyers, or veterinarians. Whatever the case, this commencement means the completion of a degree. Earning this degree enables the student to be proud of himself. He has come so far and worked hard and it has finally paid off. As the graduate marched into the field house, they looked to themselves and thought, "I did it."

The commencement address this year was delivered by United States Senator Sherrod Brown. Brown is a leading Senate advocate for the middle class and works hard to communicate with local leaders, business owners, entrepreneurs and educators.

Brown firmly believes that the nation's economic success is dependent on a highly educated citizen. ONU strives to create this higher education, preparing young adults for the future. Senator Brown stresses the importance of education because without it our future would not be progressive. Ohio Northern's commencement ceremony celebrates the entrance of hundreds of young, educated adults into the world where they have the potential to make a difference.

As hundreds of graduates took upon their cap and reached it to the other side of their cap amidst the sea of black gowns, the ceremony was official. These individuals were no longer undergraduates. They instantly became ONU alumni worthy of praise and recognition for their outstanding accomplishments. The deaf choir applause from family and friends assured the graduates that they were extremely proud. The ONU professors applaud the graduates with enthusiasm because these students had survived all the exams, homework assignments, papers, speeches and all-nighters that were necessary to succeed. As the graduates rose from their seats, they took a deep breath. Relief, satisfaction, accomplishment, yes, it is the start of something new.

Local Government Local government is the cornerstone of our democracy. It is the level of government closest to the people and most responsible to them. Local governments are the first line of defense against national policies that threaten individual freedoms and civil rights. They are the primary source of public services and are the most effective way to address local needs and concerns.

Rise and Shine

Our Classmates the Outstanding Achievements of Students in Various Organizations

The school has been a breeding ground for various students who have made their names in different fields. Many students pursuing leadership roles are making names that are to be reckoned with. The Club of Student Government and various other clubs have made quite a name which is reflected in the long-term success. The students involved are also very hardworking, determined, strong and courageous in their pursuit.

One of the best students who are part of the students is the Defense Project Award Recipients. Student Government President and Honors. Both such titles are deserved by the great student for his various all-around leadership qualities that they displayed over the course. As a member of faculty and students are in great awe of what a remarkable person he is. Despite the various situations he remains problem-free. Thus makes him the candidate to make him the manager or major high executive and the person most to consider for the series of elections. I am sure that our other students that the future students in the class of 2018 will play the category of their teacher. In me and students are ready for the fight. We will work hard to make the project. This year's recipients were as follows: President, Political Action and their Assistant Representatives, Paige Marquez and William Weisbrod; Student Government, and the Mayors for Years, Leslie Marquez and Crista Elizalde.

The second award is the Student Life Electing Student Presidents of the Year. Second, I received a grant from the university, the community service and involvement of students in students and members of the campus community for community. This award is given to an organization that has been dedicated to a community or organization. This year's first place was given to the Student Planning Committee.

In all your life, you will encounter a range of a household, school, office, family, neighborhood, Agreements, others, a career and professional organizations. There are a few people in each of these environments. These people who, due to the various nature of their organizations and not the environment, deserve all the appreciation deserved in life. The President's Leadership of Student bodies during this decade are considered to be examples of cause and courage for many to follow in their footsteps. In my opinion, it is a pleasure to follow in their footsteps. In my opinion, it is a pleasure to follow in their footsteps.

Capturing Every Perspective

Yearbook Tales: An Unusual Theme This Year and Captures the Voice of Every Student.

At the beginning of the summer before the 2010-2011 school year, sophomores Daisy Woodside and Sarah Massella were undecided on a theme for the upcoming yearbook. Suddenly, it dawned on them that it would be great to capture the perspective of different students around campus, and portray their view of Ohio Northern University instead of using a generalized and impersonal standpoint. Instead of describing what homecoming is, they would go behind the scenes and see what one girl had to do in order to make the day run smoothly. Rather than summaritizing an event like Wilcoxen-est or Gackepalooza, they would get quotes from a wide array of students to understand each person's insights on the event. The theme of "Different Points of View" was born.

This year, the Northview Yearbook gained several new editors. Sophomore literature biology major, Tracy Clyde, stepped in as copy editor. The position of business editor was fulfilled by sophomore public relations major, Paige DiMaggio. Freshman Lauren Brown applied for the assistant design editor's position despite being the youngest of the seven.

"I have been a member of the school yearbook ever since my sophomore year of high school, and it's just something I enjoy to do. Being on yearbook has allowed me to learn about all the different activities on campus," says Brown.

Engineering Photography Editor, senior Kevin Cramer, provided the editorial staff with thousands of photos to use for draping pages. Sarah Magaña, a sophomore Engineering major, attended staff meetings last year and was chosen as design editor for the edition of The Northwest.

"My favorite part is knowing that when the finished product arrives next year, people will be excited to see something I worked so hard on. I have also learned time management skills, and I've connected with my peers through diverse interests like pottery classes and taking photos at school events." —Mallory Collier

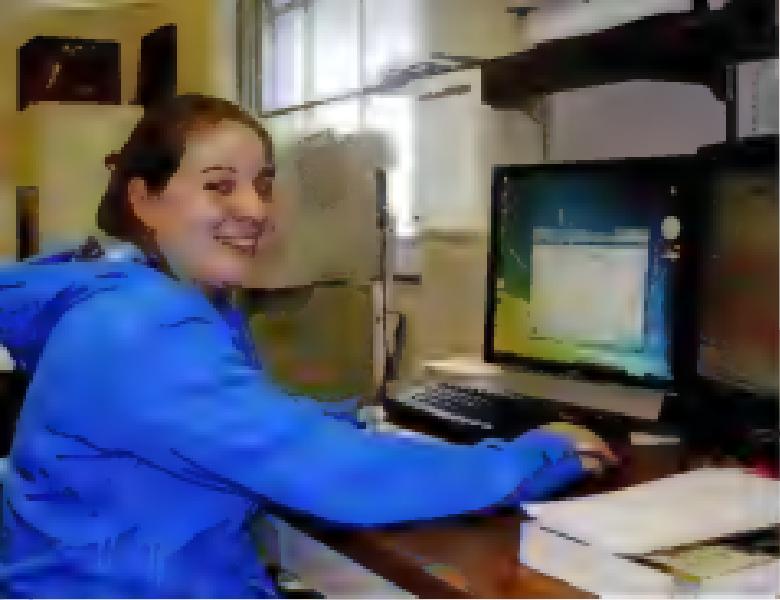

Most people underestimate the time and effort that goes into creating a yearbook and making sure everyone at the same party receives one. Writing copy involves scheduling interviews, extensive proofreading, and impeccable grammar and language skills. Photographing the hundreds of events on campus requires detailed planning and an artistic eye. Darnayra, which happens to be the title, is arguably the most hectic yearbook responsibility. Page Darnayra was in charge of delivering dozens of hours of last year's best to the various residents, departments, and offices on campus. The business editor always finds relief when the last box of books has been delivered and the final office or department can be crossed-off of the list.

With all the planning, book-making, spreadsheets creating, interviewing, and e-mail-sending, it is safe to say that being a yearbook editor is not an easy job. Despite the hardships and abundant stress, the editors find relief in finishing an assignment and handing it to the students.

"It's a challenging and demanding job," Woodside admits. "but I know I'm creating something that people will still look at thirty or forty years from now. This is one of the most valuable college experiences I could have asked for. I will look back on that and be thankful I had a part in it."

A Global Perspective

International and exchange students share their culture with Ohio Northern University

Stefanie, from South Korea, China, and India, are just a few of the countries that ONU students represent. Students come from across the globe to study many different aspects of education. There are over 1,000 students. So how does someone solar power hear about a new culture like ours? Well, for most of them it's about the research. "Typically a magazine that has some article regarding the way of life, or private television something and ONU students," says Abduleddin Abdulkader. "Students are going to learn about our own Saudi Arabia." Other students, found out about North America by word because of their relatives for strong, positive, or even inspired friend or family as well.

Coming to school is hard for everyone. For choosing to be an international student can lead to many other problems to overcome. International and exchange students must overcome the challenges of living and learning in a new culture which can be very different from their own. In conclusion, neither Abdulkader nor the best part of being an international student like themselves. It can be both important learning an other culture. We have to understand students from these two viewpoints, the culture and the technology of living here in not going to live in our culture I can actually attend here. However, it's not always true, and some students, as Wiliam Wu, sophomore accounting major from China would say. "The hardest part about studying here is the cultural wall between students of different nationalities." When faced language barriers and a lack of confidence in other struggles, but not without also saying that there are being overcome. Part 2 thanks to the World Student Organization (WSO) and other organizations on campus, the exchange and international students are able to become more involved. These friendships, over the homework now and long distance, a more memorable experience of the American culture.

After Asia for nearly long years of traveling, learning, growing, and experiencing a new culture, the international students have earned an education, made new friends, and developed new policies, ready to take on the world. At the end of the day bringing an international exchange student is well worth it and Renuka Peprah from Ghana will be the first to tell us. "I would not want to apply anywhere else because I have fallen in love with [ONU]."

Discovering Sisterhood

The Social Sororities on Campus Gain New Sisters and Friends for Life.

Every year, the Greek organizations on campus look forward to meeting new students and giving them bids to join their particular sorority or fraternity. The social sororities on campus have a huge celebration for their new members that lasts the majority of the day. The sorority recruitment process takes up the first month of school and the formal rounds start the last week of September, ending with Bid Day on the first Sunday of October. Throughout the duration of recruitment, there are girls from each sorority who must de-affiliate and take on the identity of a Rho Gamma. It is not until Bid Day that they may rejoin their sororities once again by running across the King Hall fieldhouse and into the mob of sisters. Senior Sabrina Widman said that her favorite part about being a Rho Gamma was "meeting sisters from chapters other than my own. I never would have met them otherwise. I made a lot of new friends!" Once the Rho Gammas have been created with their sororities, the new members get to go and join in as well. Each group takes pictures and goes back to their houses to celebrate the wonderful new additions to their sororities. Overall, Bid Day is a wonderful experience for the new members as well as the older ones. The new girls get to see what Greek life is really about and share life with their new sisters. It is also a day to celebrate the joy of continuing on with traditions and meaningful experiences within each sorority.

"[My favorite part was] meeting sisters from chapters other than my own. I never would have met them otherwise. I made a lot of new friends!" Sabrina Widman, Senior

This year's theme was "The Good Life," which focused on the importance of appreciating the simple things in life. The theme was reflected in the decorations, which included a large pair of pink sunglasses with the words "WELCOME TO THE GOOD LIFE" written above them. The decorations also included various items such as balloons, streamers, and a large banner that read "THETA & CO". The theme was also evident in the activities and games that were played during the event, such as a game where participants had to identify different types of food based on their taste and texture.

The event was a success, with many attendees enjoying the food, music, and company of their friends.

Alpha Xi Delta

AΞΔ

2010-2011 was a busy year for the ladies of Alpha Xi Delta! This fall, they welcomed a fall class and began their pump-start raising money for their philanthropy, Autism Speaks. During winter quarter they hosted Philanthropost, where teams from organizations all over campus come together to race to put puzzles together in the fastest time. Later on in the quarter the ladies hosted Singed Chat, a mock game show where single students from around the campus competed to win a date with one lucky male or female. Finally during Autism Awareness week, the ladies spread the word about autism by lighting their house with blue lights, balloons, chalkling the campus with "light above autism", and by hosting a Blue Dinner at their Affinity Village house where they made blueberry pancakes and waffles. All the money raised by these three events, totaling over $150, was donated to Autism Speaks.

Besides raising money for philanthropy, the ladies of Alpha Xi Delta also participated in Greek Week. They had a blast playing mixed tag-of-war, testing their knowledge in Greek Trivia, and performing their own rendition of Ke$ha's "Take it Off", changing the lyrics to relate to life in Ads at Greek Sing, where they took first place in the event.

Along with the Greek Sing award, the ladies also received "Most Improved in GPA", which the ladies worked hard at to achieve the third highest GPA among all Greek chapters for winter quarter. They also received Illusions for the Standards of Excellence award. The chapter is very proud and excited for all the recognition for the hard work they put through the year!

As the sisters of Alpha Xi Delta finish out this year with the addition of their spring new member class they also wish their graduating seniors the best of luck with their future endeavors. Members look forward to the semester to come when they can look back at all the fun times they had this year and create new memories!

Delta Zeta

ΔΖ

The Zeta Kappa Chapter of Delta Zeta had a wonderful year! The chapter has 21 members. These girls made great academic accomplishments this year. They were able to beat the All-Greek Total GPA and the All Women Total GPA on campus. This was a huge accomplishment for the chapter, and they received national recognition for it. As far as philanthropic accomplishments, the sorority put in a total of 3,074 hours and raised $748.00 this past year. The sisters were recognized this past year as the chapter with the most service hours in the state! The sisters also put on some funraise, philanthropy, events. They hosted the annual Twinkie Tag event, had tables at MAC, Jammie Heart Health Awareness week, and for the first time, the chapter put on Helping Hands: A Chassidic Competition for the Hearing Impaired. These events not only raised money and awareness, for the causes they supported, but the girls also had a great time putting them on. Another new event took place this past year and that was the Mother/Daughter Alumni Tea. The chapter had a great time bringing their mothers to a fun afternoon tea with basket and met a few others in the soon to be annual event. The Zeta Kappa Chapter had a very successful year and it will definitely continue doing great things for the years to come!

The sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta, Zeta Sigma chapter had an exciting and productive 2010-2011 school year! After settling in on campus, the Thetas kicked off the new year with formal recruitment. During recruitment, sisters got to meet the freshman girls on campus as well as other girls interested in becoming Greeks. Thus Bid Day was held at the beginning of October, and the Thetas were proud to welcome 20 young women into the chapter as new members. Also in October, the sisters cleaned up their adopted portion of Old HI, as well as painted pumpkins and made cards for the Elmersont assisted living home in Lane. At the end of the month, the Thetas invited the brothers of Delta Sigma Phi to the sorority house for a Halloween themed social in addition to the joint "Bake 'N Run" service event. The Thetas held their first philanthropy event at the beginning of November, which was "Taco Night at Our CASA."

After celebrating Thanksgiving and taking fall quarter finals, the Thetas began winter quarter with their Semi-Formal Dance in December. Shortly after, new positions were assigned and P.J. Caroline Cason was named as the new president of the chapter. Also in December, the Thetas held one of their most popular philanthropy events, Mr. DNU. In January, the chapter held their Development Day as well as attended educational programs. At the beginning of the month, the sisters invited the brothers of Theta Chi to come to the sorority house for a New Year's themed social. Toward the end of the month, the Thetas announced the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon to the house for a "Mix-It Social". At the end of January, the sisters celebrated Founder's Day. During February, the Thetas sold Kiss-O-Creams for Valentine's Day, and enjoyed the benefits of membership at a retreat. The sisters took winter quarter finals and enjoyed their spring break.

The Thetas welcomed spring quarter with an informal orientation dinner at the beginning of March. The chapter welcomed one new member for the spring. During this month, the sisters attended educational programs and held their popular "Theta Twister" philanthropy event, which benefited CASA. Also in March, the Thetas invited the brothers of Phi Delta Chi to come to the sorority house for a March Madness themed social. April began for the Thetas with Month-Off quickly followed by Greek Week. The sisters dominated the competition in the activities throughout the week and were named Greek Week Champions of 2011. Also, Theta was the only sorority to the awarded Gold Chapter. Toward the end of the month, the Thetas organized an Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Adas in the park, and enjoyed a social with the sisters of Alpha Xi Delta. The last event the Thetas had in April was their Formal Dance, which was held at The Inn on campus. In May the sisters were sad to say goodbye to their graduating seniors at the Senior Banquet at the beginning of the month. The year came to a close with the commencement ceremony and the sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta dispersed for summer, but kept in contact to prepare for the exciting upcoming academic year.

Zeta Tau Alpha

ZTA

The sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha pride themselves on scholarship, service and philanthropy, leadership, and sisterhood. This fall, Zeta Tau Alpha welcomed twenty-one new members, making a chapter total of seventy-seven. The sisters can be seen proudly displaying their letters in every major student organization on campus.

The Delta Theta chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha takes part in numerous service activities to benefit their national philanthropy Breast Cancer Education and Awareness. First off every October in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the sisters engage in the campus of Ohio Northern University in Pink Fest for a week. This year, the week opened with a highly attended Party in Pink Luncheon for the Sisters to Remember a Cure, providing two hours of Zumba Fitness classes and coffee for Austria girls. Also, throughout the week, Zeta Tau Alpha hosted a Yoplait Lids to Save Lives yogurt eating contest in McIntosh and a three-on-three basketball tournament in King Hall. Finally, the week culminated with a Pink Ribbon football game at Chal Robertson Stadium, in which the sisters passed out pink ribbons and teal T-shirts. As half-time, in honor of those who have fought and continue to fight breast cancer, pink balloons were released. Overall, the Delta Theta chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha raised over $2,500. Secondly, serving as the most successful philanthropic event on the campus of Ohio Northern University, every April the sisters host their Annual Race for the Ribbon 5K. Each year the 5K features roughly 400 runners and raises over $5,000.

Above all, the sisters of the Delta Theta chapter strive for excellence. Ohio Northern University awarded Zeta Tau Alpha Outstanding Community Service, Outstanding Philanthropy, First Place Excellence in Internal Relations and Risk Management for Standards of Excellence and Standards of Excellence Silver Chapter. Also, our matricials awarded Delta Theta for achieving Most Matricials Chapter for Highly Commendable Academic Achievement and Fundraising over $5,000.

Delta Sigma Phi

ΔΣΦ

Inspired by the principles of universal brotherhood of men, Delta Sigma Phi made an impact during the 2010-2011 school year. They were driven to improve their academics, number of community service hours, philanthropy projects, and overall campus contributions. During the fall they paired up with the sorority Kappa Alpha Theta to perform a Ruler and King around the Ada dormitories. They went throughout the town, and took pictures for the houses of families who could not. Not only did they have a great service event, they also had successful initiations.

The fall wrap up their another winter quarter was just as flowing. They continued to strive for academic excellence while sending some brotherhood material contributions to expand ideas for the future of the fraternity. This they now know pride and success for the brotherhood; they wanted to continue in having only the best, which was shown during spring quarter.

The last spring quarter here at OHSU was a bust as far

Delta Sigma Phi as they continued their value by their purpose of fulfilling the desire of serious young college men for a fellowship of brotherhood in under a practical working ideal as possible not entwined with too many traditional past and annual standards of membership and accompanied by a clean pure and honorable chapter home life. They lived up to this by having brotherhood activities of sign-singals, brother games, and more famous than ever home improvements. During spring they had a great bar tournament which supported their philanthropy partnership with March of Dimes. Also they had brothers involved outside of the Malibrook dining hall, no collects names for the car wash as well. They came above the expectation and even walked in the March of Dimes walk May 4th.

The brothers ended the year strong with Lureyville Awards for Best Sportsmanship and Most Spirited High Conference and a stronger and more well rounded brotherhood.

Phi Delta Chi

ΦΔΧ

The Alpha Epsilon chapter of Phi Delta Chi and its Brothers had another successful year. They added five new Brothers in the fall: Emerson Salagon, Nathan Scott, Gavin Klass, Nicholas Jantzen, and Corry Lutidge. The Brothers once again had the highest overall GPA in the fall and winter quarters amongst all fraternities, having the GPA average for all males on campus. Phi Delta Chi completed over 300 hours of community service at a Firehouse. One of their programs then hosted a health screening at Kau's Supermarket in March with Dr. Kristen Seibert, one of the Brothers, Brad Janke, also received our Spaghetti Dinner for St. Jude's program, which raised over $160 for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, their national philanthropy. During their term of Nikolas Peavy, Ben Hender, Chad Mays, and Ryan Sutting won the popular vote at Best Dressed award. A Relay After raising over $215 for the AIDS Resource Center in Iowa. The Phi Delta Chi Brothers have also held four socials this year. They had a Blue/White social with the Alpha Kappa Delta sorority, a Christmas social with the Delta Zetas, a March Madness social with the Kappa Alpha Theta, and a cookout with Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, one of our Brothers, Paul Lamont, was chosen as the Beta Tau Alpha Freshman of the spring.

Phi Mu Delta

ΦΜΔ

The brothers of Phi Mu Delta kept themselves busy and very active on campus as the long summer Northern came to a close. They started their year off with eight hours of service to the service hours, as well as continuing their annual philanthropic projects.

The varied strong in their belief, as the brothers participated in all of the opening weekend events such as the Welcome and Gourpavacca. As the quarter continued they began to focus on their philanthropic cause by Judson Children's Research Hospital. They did numerous things to continue their support such as game nights and walking through residence hall collecting spare change and canned food items. During the winter quarter they set up a generator as they helped to support a local family in need by providing gifts and dinner for 4 months. This was the only philanthropic endeavor did that quarter. As Phi Mu Delta had hoped, they hosted the 2nd Annual Cakes for Kids. This event was held at the end of the quarter. Brothers were married outside of the

Helen & Memorial Hall, where they sold pastries and souvenirs to the hungry students during the deer winter months. They also helped to raise money for the local food bank. The brothers cared for their philanthropic partners so much that a majority of the 1st & 2nd class members joined the group of brothers. This showed compassion and dedication to the rest of the Lurie's community.

Phi Mu Delta ended their year strong as they showed their continued support at various organizations, internal and external sports. They had five brotherhood bonding activities that were to have social events within the Lurie's community. They started on the campus with dormitories, and ended their journey with the same pride for the brotherhood as the beginning of the school year.

Phi Mu Delta strives to provide a positive environment appropriate for modern college men, encouraging high personal standards, morally, mentally, and spiritually, and to help its members live the ideals of our founders: democracy, brotherhood and service.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The Ohio Alpha chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity has had a strong presence on the CNU campus since they arrived in Ada in 1963. With thirty seven active members, the brotherhood strives to excel academically and philanthropically both on the CNU campus as well as across the Ada community. The annual Sig Ep Balloon Glow in support of Youth AIDS Awareness is a staple event during CNU's Homecoming weekend. This event is a great way to support an important cause as well as provide some fun and entertainment to the Ada community. This year at the fourth annual Sig Ep Balloon Glow, over 100 supporters attended the event making the entire night a success by raising nearly $1,000. The brotherhood also maintains a portion of U.S. Route 230 south of downtown Ada, cleaning up the road and clearing out trash. Sigma Phi Epsilon also volunteers time donating blood, helping out with the ReShoe, as well as many other various community service projects on CNU and throughout the area.

The brothers of Sigma Pi, Zeta Chapter kicked off the year with their 5th Annual Hog Roast, which was a success as they raised for a local charity. By middle of fall quarter they had built up the brotherhood by 8 new members. These new 8 members made their fraternity the largest on campus bringing the total to 36 members. During fall quarter they held their yearly Halloween social with the Delta Zeta. They also had numerous brotherhood activities such as watching football games in the house, supporting other Greek organizations, philanthropy events, and getting involved with the brothers on move-in day and at WelcomeFest and Greekapalooza.

With a successful fall, the brothers definitely did not want to slow down! At the beginning of Spring Quarter the brothers co-sponsored a Sam Study presentation with Zeta Tau Alpha and the Panhellenic Council. It creates a great deal to Sigma Pi that they partook in the event as it is their main philanthropy. Also, they wanted to stress for the continuation of what their brotherhood is based on,

"United in Brotherhood, To Advance Truth and Justice, To Promote Scholarship, To Encourage Chevalry, To Differ Culmey, And To Develop Characters In the Service of God and man."

There was more to Sigma Pi's spring quarter than what mentioned! The brothers volunteered their time at a soup kitchen and food pantry in Butler. More philanthropy hours. On top of all of this, they had a significant role in the Semple Cancer-on-a-Roll 5K. The proceeds from the run were split in half; half going to the Arsenous Cancer Society and the other half to Dave Delfield. Dave Delfield is the current Sigma Pi advisor and was diagnosed with stage 4 melanoma. The brothers were so grateful for everything that Dave had done; so they nominated him for Fraternity Advisor of the Year, and he won.

As the academic year ended, the brothers of the Sigma Pi, Zeta Chapter said their goodbyes to the graduating seniors and getting ready for another successful year in 2011-2012.

Theta Chi

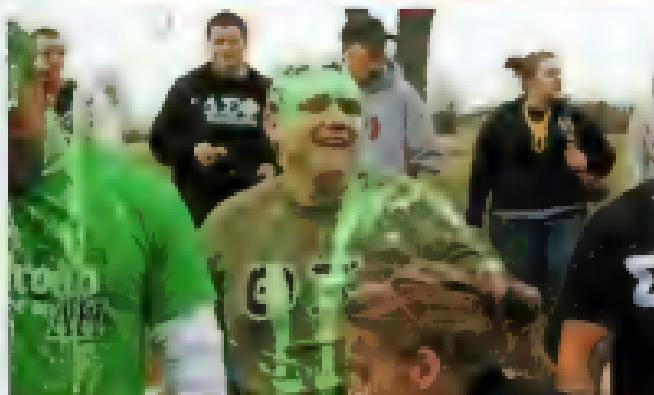

ΘΧ

During the 2010-2011 academic year, Theta Chi has continued to succeed across campus. During the fall many brothers became active in other organizations such as Kappa Psi, student senate, World Student Organization, chess club, Ada friends, and Habitat for humanity. During the year, the brothers devoted themselves to community service projects such as rake and run, and shoveling snow in the community after winter snow storm. Theta Chi had then been run out over for their main philanthropy event, the 24-hour run. This was the brothers recorded over 400 miles and over $300 raised for ONU faculty member, Dale Delfield, who was diagnosed with stage 4 cancer in late winter. Brothers also attended Mid Year Leadership Conference, OAC Greek Leadership Conference, and Division's conference to enhance their leadership skills.

Looking back on the year, the brothers of Theta Chi have had a busy and entertaining time. As the 2010-2011 year comes to an end, Theta Chi looks forward to another great year for Greek life at ONU!

Greek Week 2011 Allows Greeks to Revive Their Youth and Compete in Fun-Filled Activities

The Greek Week theme this year brought everyone back to the ways of their youth. Greekelodeon was the theme and every chapter chose their favorite Multikulture TV show. Each chapter made a banner decorated with their theme, and there were art displays all week long in Multikulture. Campers ran high as the Greek communities participated in events such as the Greek Olympics, participated in the Spirit Award ceremony for 2011, and chapter wars.

The Spirit Award ceremony for 2011 and chapter wars gave Spirit Points when they displayed things such as cheering, making signs, face painting, and Greek Gods/Goddesses appearances. The winners this year were Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Zeta. The Spiritmanship Award went to Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Xi Delta.

Set up all week long in Multikulture was the Penny Wars table. Many members of the community came for their favorite Greek God or Goddess by putting money in their jar. The war proceeds were split between Dove Daffield and the American Cancer Society. The donations from Penn Wars and Watermelon Bash resulted in over $2000 being raised! The Greek God this year was Quasimodo from Delta Sigma Phi and the Greek Goddess was Taurina Parker from Pi Beta Tau Alpha.

The Bears Place 2nd in the GwG Championship Race for the Second Year in a Row

There are many winter sports that Ober Northern offers to students. Men's Cross Country has continued to do well in their seasons, including this past fall 2010 season. The 2010 season marked the 12th consecutive winning season for the men's team under the coaching of Jason Maier. This is Maier's second year with the Polar Bears and he will be returning next year to have a go at another winning season. From the beginning of the season the team was strong as they ended the season in second place in the Division 3 race. The Bears also had out on top and placed second the GMC Champion race for the second year in a row. Honorable mention was given to 18 racers in the conference five of which were awarded in Northern racers. When asked about what a

Dan Smith ran a career best time of 28.69 and was 11th of 100 runners overall. The Western Southern section of the 2013 season was fifth place. The Boys came

This upcoming season, we are trying the results of last season to build off of and continue to do all the right things to get us into that position again to meet the high goals we have set. The Polar Bears will continue working hard at the off season to better themselves for the fall so they can reach those goal of going to Nationals.

The OHU Women's Cross-Country Team Shows Remarkable Strength and Perseverance.

This season, every mile paid off for the Ohio Northern Women's Cross Country team. Accolades were in abundance for the Lady Beans. With a summer's worth of hard training behind them, the team got the season off to a flying start by winning their first meet at the Dayton Flyer 5k Challenge. The team's drive only grew from there; a perfect score of fifteen points earned the Beans a first place finish in their division at the Bowling Green Invitational, and the team placed second at the highly-competitive Calvin Select Invitational in Michigan. The All-Ohio meet proved to be a success for the Polar Beans, as they beat out teams from across the state to bring home a third place trophy. Next, the team took a trip down south, running their way to a third place finish at the Pittman Invitational in South Carolina. This final meet closed the regular season for the team, giving them top-three finishes in every meet in which they competed. To close out the season, the Polar Beans ran away from the competition at the OAC conference meet, capturing second place by thirty-four points, the team of twenty-one girls scored twenty-nine points to clinch their third conference title in five years. The Lady Beans ended their season by placing fifth at the Great Lakes Regional meet, missing a team spot at the DIII National Championships by a heartbreaking three points. The team had an impressive final record of 84-9.

The ambitious and determined young women of the team are winners both on the course and in the classroom, as they were named an Academic All-American Team. Other awards this season went to sophomores Alison Steinhauer and Lydia Wevers, and juniors Kelly Gerasma, Mallory Wilson, and Ashley Baumer as All-OAC award winners. Steinhauer and Gerasma continued on to garner All-Great Lakes Region awards. Steinhauer nabbed her second consecutive OAC championship title and OAC Runner of the Year award, and became Ohio Northern's second All-American track and fielder with her 21st place finish at the National Championship meet. Steinhauer also set ten records of her own school records this year. She broke her previous 1,000-meter record at the Calvin Select meet, crossing the line in 2:13, and reset her own 6,000-meter record twice. Her current 6,000-meter record clocks in at 21:27. Second-year head coach Jason Matas also gained his second OAC Coach of the Year award. This season completes the nineteenth winning season in a row for the women's cross country team, and with twenty-six of the twenty-one girls returning to the roster next year, hopes are high for the team full of talent and tenacity.

As much as the Polar Beans enjoyed the success this year, the teammates agree that no trophy can match the friendships made along the way. "Every single one of the girls on the team became a best friend to me," says sophomore Brittany Stanek. "Essentially, the team is a second family."

Football team breaks record for most consecutive wins and earns a spot in the playoffs.

The Ohio Northern Football Team was overwhelmed with success in the 2013 season. The success started early when the Polar Bears defeated the Italy All-Star team, started the season ranked 11th nationally, and then went on to win their first three games of the season. By also winning the last seven games of 2013, the football team broke the school record by having ten consecutive wins. The streak died when the Polar Bears faced Mount Union who was ranked second nationally. Ohio Northern quickly recovered from that defeat, and won the next six games in regular season, defeating their opponents by twenty points or more in every game played. Ohio Northern moved up to number one in its national rankings and earned themselves a place in the playoffs for the first time in eleven years. Ohio Northern won their first playoff game, defeating number one Mt. Union, 17-14 and advanced to the second round of playoffs where they came up short to Miami (Ohio) who was ranked number five nationally.

Ohio Northern's success was not limited to national rankings and broken records, but many individuals on the team were also recognized for their performance. Six Ohio Northern football players were named to First Team All-Ohio Athletic Conference: Kyle Simmers, Brett Dusley (Ohio Offensive Player of the Year), Austin Southwick (All-Ohio

First Team), Jason Richards (All-Ohio Second Team), Chad Corradi, and Cody Kelly. Seven players named Second Team All-Ohio Athletic Conference: Ryan Fleming, Eric Wenzel, Blair Klenkberger, Pat Dechant, Trygve Henselkamp, Kyle Smith, and Kevin Wyslansky. Brock Crawford and Jeff Butler were named Honorable mention while Kyle Simmons and Tyler Joseph switched their success to the classroom and were named ESPN The Magazine Academic All-Ohioan IV. Simmons, Wenzel, and Eric Miller also earned Academic All-OAC and Head Coach Dean Paul was named Division III Ohio Coach of the year by ChosenFootball.com.

The Polar Bears achieved so much success in just one season because they were a wellrounded team excelling in all aspects of the game, such as: knowledge, hard work, dedication to the program, and leadership. "The leadership that this senior class showed was outstanding and for a 100 plus guys to come out and follow just shows the caliber of student athletes that our program generates in individuals," Senior Captain Brett Dusley states. "I will definitely miss this football program and university but I am always looking forward to taking the educational values and character that this great institution has provided me with."

"The leadership that this senior class showed was outstanding."

Conference Championship Leads to Men's Soccer's Third Consecutive NCAA Appearance

The Ohio Northern Men's Soccer team remains in a tradition of excellence throughout the 2010 season. Despite a slow start tallying two losses to Kenyon and Denison, the team named their season around tallying only three other losses. Through the season leadership from captains Brendon Crowley and Mark Massone, the team ended the season with not only a fifth straight winning record of 17-5-1 but also an OAC championship and a third straight appearance in the NCAC tournament.

In order to receive an automatic bid to the National Tournament, a team must be the reigning conference tournament champion. Without winning the tournament year record and toughness of schedule will determine your post season fate. After losing the tournament the previous year, the team was more determined than ever to regain the conference title. "Last year we lost at home in penalties so this year we're set on being tournament champs and receiving the automatic bid into the N.C.A.A. tournament," said

Ohio Northern ended the 2010 tournament at a No. 2 seed. After a first-round bye, the Beavers beat Baldwin-Wallace when they met earlier in the season. Despite an early goal by Baldwin-Wallace's Paul Sienkiewicz, Ohio Northern scored four times within a span of several field goals from senior Greg Schmitz.

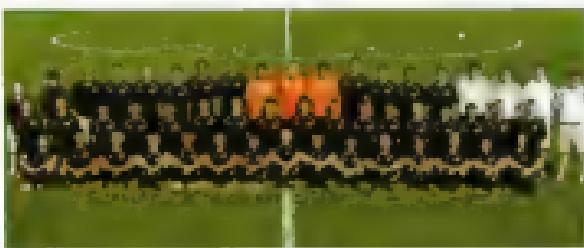

In the final game the Bears faced the Vikings.

Larson in the season, Osha Nobis was held to the Student Trainer. J.J. Wilm as coach played mostly minutes, regulation ended with a 2-2 draw. In the 10th minute a shot from Barron Crowley was handled by the Student Trainer goalkeeper and James Christian Hirschman capitalized on the opportunity and the ball found the back of the net securing the Conference Tournament Title and the automatic bid for the third year in history. "The UVa" name of the toughest competition in the nation. We knew it was going to be a rough game. We came ready to play and won in great fashion too. Despite losing in the first round of the NCAA tournament, the Polar Bears continued excellence with their third straight appearance in the tournament. "We are happy to have made it for the third consecutive year. Hopefully next year we can go even deeper in the tournament," said Bascom and

During the period of the First World War, the British government was faced with the problem of how to deal with the large number of German prisoners of war who had been captured by the Allies. The British government decided to release these prisoners, and they were sent back to Germany. This decision was made despite the fact that many of these prisoners had been captured during the course of the war, and had been held captive for a long time.

Overcoming Adversity

The women's soccer team finds success despite devastating injuries.

Evening the season, the team's main focus revolved around a win against Oberhess and an OAC championship. Little did the team know their biggest opponent of the year was not the notorious Cardinals, but adversity due to injuries. Not only did the injuries cause the team to play in a new formation but they also forced younger players to step up and fill in where they were needed. The injuries brought a new challenge to the team and forced the players to work together to achieve greatness despite the odds.

In the middle of one season, the polar bears lost four starters due to season ending injuries. The series of unfortunate events began even before the opening match of the season. During the first scrimmage against Wofford sophomore center defender Lindsay Gilchrist tore her ACL within the first few minutes of the game. A few games later, junior outside mid fielder Christian Spinella suffered an injury and pulled Gilchrist off the substrate. Junior defender Chelsea Chabot broke the ACL several weeks into the season, resulting due to blood clots in her legs. With the number of injuries quickly growing, other players were forced to fill these shoes.

Without hesitation, freshman Abby Varga took initiative and stepped onto the backline. Although she was a first year player, she embraced her new role and was willing to do whatever it took to help the team. Furthermore, senior mid fielder Chelsea Albert found herself taking on a new role as a center defender. These two players among many adjusted their game for the team.

Despite the injuries, the team pushed forward. The players whose seasons were cut short became determined and motivated for the rest of the year. Each game was played for them and the players learned to never take a game for granted because it can always be your last. These ideas forced the team to come together and become one. The Bears went on to the OAC championship game where they were defeated by Oberhess. It was in this final game, that the team had yet another player due to injury. Within the last five minutes of regulation, Albert exited the game with another knee injury.

Although the season ended in a loss and much devastation, the above the team ended with far more rewarding. The season proved to each player that despite the injuries, they can achieve greatness. The season did not end the way they anticipated but it only brought both more determination and motivation for next year.

"I go into every game like the only option we have is to win. I play for myself, my team, and my coaches." — Sandy Plunkett, Freshman

Unity: On and Off the Court

Despite a Rocky Start, the Women's Volleyball team ends with an NCAA Tournament Appearance

Unite [ree-sah'-uh] to become joined together at a particular point so as to form a single whole. This simple word was the fuel behind the girls' success this season. From the beginning, encountering adversity would present challenges to the team. With 10 new players, more incoming transfers and a mix of sophomores, the returning players knew bonding as a team was an important part to playing together as a team. Senior Captain Alexa Christian stated, "With new and old players we sat together at breakfast. It was important to get together with the team this summer since we had 10 new players being added to the team. The upperclassmen like to get together with the incoming freshman during orientation so we can get to know each other before practice starts. We were excited because I found that the incoming class was full of personal style and would bring a fresh talent to the team," said Christian. During practice, the girls went to sporting events, did team building activities, ate lunch together and gathered through text a day together.

A few weeks into the season, adversity struck again. With several players going down from injuries, it was important for the team to adjust to the new players on the floor. Sophomore, Alexa Christian, describes character and continued to play through the injury. Despite a painful elbow injury, libero and junior captain Kasey Roeser pushed through the pain

"I didn't want to let my team down by not playing. I had worked so hard and wanted to do everything I could for my team. If I was given permission, I'd do it again in a heartbeat," recounted Roeser. After a rough few weeks, all players recovered and the team was back on track.

The team ended the regular season with a 13-11 record—a win at the ONU invitational and a third place finish in the Ohio Athlete Conference. Going into the OAC tournament, the team knew that winning would mean a bid to the NCAA tournament. After advancing, Oberlin College was the semi-finalist for the spot. The team lost to Heidelberg University, placing second in the tournament. All the team could hope for was an at-large bid.

The team acquired a bid, but was defeated in the first round by Wittenberg University. Since we played such a tough schedule during the regular season, it was a big accomplishment making it to the NCAA tournament. Although we lost in the first round, it was still an honor to be grouped with the other teams that made it to the tournament," said Christian. The girls encouraged seniors and ended the year with the old in order to bring home a 19-1 record, an OAC conference and 27th NCAA Tournament appearance, and extended their NCAA appearances' record to 14 consecutive winning seasons.

It is still an honor to be grouped with the other teams that make it to the tournament."

Growing Pains

Men's basketball pushes forward despite young team

After losing three key seniors, including two all-conference players, Eric Headshaw and Brett Hampson, and All-American Kyle Meyer, the men's basketball team entered the 2010-2011 season with seven seniors. Although the team lacked senior leadership, the absence strengthened team dynamics and allowed new players to find themselves in leadership roles.

With no seniors on the roster, opportunity arose for the younger players to step up into leadership positions. Despite their young ages, junior Sean Scheidt and sophomore Tony Meyer and Taylor Kohlman accepted the captain titles. With less experience compared to the captains of the past, these three had to learn their leadership roles during the season. In the end, they all led the team to the same goals—growth and success. "As captains, we want to set a good example for the younger players," sophomore captain Tony Meyer said.

The lack of seniors forced the younger players to grow fast beyond their years of experience. It was vital for the freshmen to transition quickly from the high school game to the college game. "Our freshmen have had to step up into pretty big roles due to us not having any seniors. They had no senior play defense, and even have leadership roles," Meyer said. The freshmen stepped up to the plate and completed this challenge head on. During Ohio Northern's 56-52 victory against John Carroll, freshman

Heath Jones led four ONU freshmen in double figures. Jones and fellow freshmen Brendon Bushaw scored 13 while sophomore Joe Stanley and Jared Hartman each tallied 12 and 11 points. In fact, it was Jones who concluded the win with a 3-pointer with 1:08 remaining.

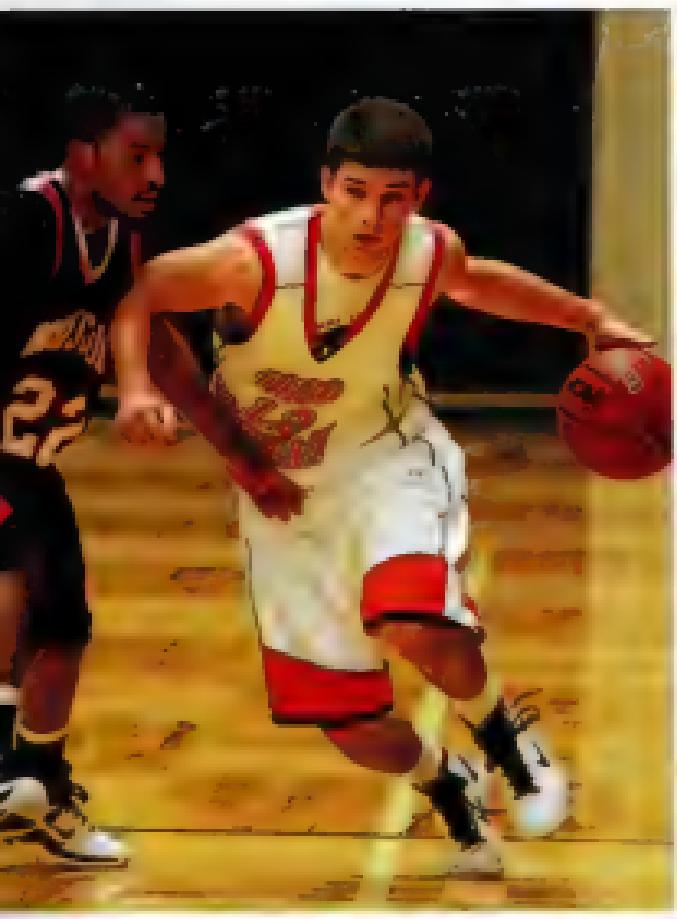

Although the 2010-2011 season was not the strongest compared to previous years, it allowed the team to create a solid foundation for the years to come. This year was a building year full of growth and maturity. According to Meyer, "The team has grown not only in experience but in maturity also. Not having any seniors on the team allowed that to happen." Not only is the senior team returning next season but also the entire starting lineup and captains. Rather than standing over, the seniors has the opportunity to build off of their experience from this year.

"Our growing pains allow us to learn from each other and in the long run, it will allow us to be a better team."

Dancers and Cheerleaders Support the Northern Polar Bear

The Northern Stars Dance Team had a busy year. At Homecoming, they rode on a float, sold red-iced CMOI cookies as a fundraiser, and won first place in the talent show. The team performed at a men's basketball game and multiple men's and women's home basketball games. They also decorated the men's basketball team's locker room and made them towels for some of their games. Their coach showed the girls how to provide their own CMOI basketball uniforms. The Northern Stars also starred at games to cheer and promote school spirit. They hosted a fall dance class and homecoming "spirit squares" and also provided entertainment at Greek Sing. The team had a Christmas party to promote team bonding and held our annual jeans and bumper or blarney. The Northern Stars perform a wide variety of dances styles including hip hop, jazz, lyrical, and kick. Graduating seniors include Sabrina Whitman, Emily Hart, Aubrey Pragal, and Kaylah Mattheis. Next year there hope to compete in state dance classes in New York City as well as professionals, or even host a dance invitational here at OHS Northern.

Women's Basketball Toffles the Most Impressive Season Start in Program History

The Women's Basketball team notched another successful season for the royal blues. The team took no time to settle into the season and started strong for exhibition right from the start. In the first eleven games of the season, the blues found themselves on a nine-game winning streak with a 10-1 record leading them straight into conference play against the

The team, proved valuable for the Bears as it contained five Ohio Athletic Conference games against Muskingum, Oberlin, John Carroll, Marietta, and Capital. The Bears came to play and showed their ability which can be seen in their early performance. During their nine game winning streak, each game was won by at least fourteen points. In fact, the only defeat in the first eleven games came as a single digit loss to Hanover at the Sodiroka Classic in Lexington, Kentucky two games into the season. Although the OHU Women's Basketball team fell short as later GMC games to Mount Union, Baldwin-Wallace Musketeers, Oberlin and Capital, the early wins at the start of the season allowed the Bats to finish third place in the GMC regular season. That third place finish in season play allowed them to enter the post season GMC tournament as the No. 1 seed.

Multiple factors came into play that helped lead the team to such early success. The 2010-2011 Women's Basketball team entered the season with the return of almost the entire lineup from the previous year. In fact, few changes remained for this season. With experience on their side, the team was able to pick up right where they left off. Junior Kara Drennan led the Polar Bears in rebounding averaging 4.1 a game and led the GMC with a .875 shooting percentage. In the class season, Drennan earned only three. Sophomore Morgan Dunbrugh had a .761 3-point shooting average which placed her among the top ten all-time leading 3-point shooters.

"Besides being able to play a sport I enjoy, I have made many great friends and have had the opportunity to travel to numerous places around the country." Katie Meeson, P3

ranked second in the CAC for best field goal percentage at .462, best free throw percentage at .754, and the best 3-point percentage at .413.

With a strong returning class and valuable new players, the Ohio Northern Women's Basketball team was able to start the season unlike any other. With five early Ohio Athletic Conference victories and a 10-1 record, this year's team was truly one for the record books.

Stepping Up

Seven Indian Air Force Wingmen to Share the Nine Points

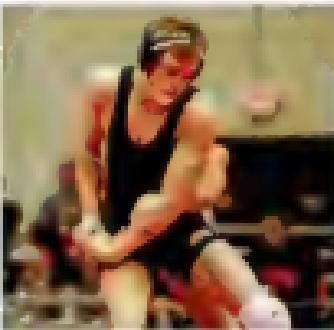

With countless injuries cutting many swimmers' seasons short, the Ohio Northern University team was forced to fall from straight to peak forward. From knees to backs and even clavicles, the swimming team could not catch a break. Despite enduring one injury after another, the team focused on the positives and managed to capture its 11th division of excellence competing at the top level.

Although squares knocked less players out of competition, the team pushed forward rather than focusing on the losses. New members were forced to see each new roles for the good of the team. "We needed a couple of residents to step up and fill spots of the missed workers," sophomore Jeremy James and Jerry Pasquale and Cody Hartung were two brothers that found themselves in that exact situation. The two apprentices in the 125 weight class were tasked having the two residents to be their straight one-thing from the start. After recovering from his own similar injury freshman Union Gregg filled in when the star was hurt. Although the workers were young, they were willing to step up and fill in for the team.

With young wrestlers stepping up into new roles, the team was forced to find success despite various issues making repairs from leadership down, junior captain Matt Alexander and senior captain Luke Miller led the team to a third place title in the CAC tournament. The team found success individually as well. Luke Miller was third at the NC AA Division III Championships while sophomore Kyle Kyndt took fifth and junior Michael Leibler was one match away from placing. With the squares behind them, the CHNU Wrestling team focused on their effort allowing them to come together and find success.

Leading the Pack

©Hui Man's Jamming and Drama Team: the Creative Competition

Over the course of the last seven years, the Ohio Northern Men's Swimming and Diving team has been the team to beat. After finishing first in their last six appearances at the Ohio Atlantic Conference Tournament, the Bisons were determined to add to another long list of titles this year. After winning the 2011 regular season, the team repeated their seven consecutive OAC championship every single dual race this season.

The 2011 team not only won both titles but also managed to pull away with a large margin. At the end of the three day GAC tournament, the Bears finished with 109 points beating the second place team, John Carroll, by 101 points. In fact, the team won eleven of the twenty events in the championships. According to women's head coach Peggy Daboll the year's swimming and diving team consisted of the perfect combination of members allowing the team to find such high levels of success.

"We have been fortunate with the voluntary nature of our results. We were able to combine that strength in event coverage with a large turn and repeat our Conference titles to make it work in a new world," said Clark.

During the conference meet, the team shattered numerous records solidifying their reign as the best youth program in the GMC. Over the course of the three days, DPHS broke four GMC records and seven GHSL records. One of the many record breakers was freshman Isiah Arneson. Arneson finished first in the 200 butterfly and broke the GHSL record by nearly three seconds with his 1:48.21. Freshman long distance runner Chase

Kremer was named the OAC Men's Swimmer of the Year.

After the confirmation vote, multiple ONU nominees were recognized for their accomplishments and may give the opportunity to continue their work at the national level. Sophomore Marc Anderson and junior Anders Samuelsson were the two nominees who made the NCAs National "B" cut during these seasons. Although two swimmers made the cut, Coach Fornal continues to push forward and strives for an even greater representation of ONU at the national level.

"We had 2 NCAA wins, but we want to push ahead to making it to NCAA with more members. It's always great to match the team put things together at the right time. I feel we were better doing than this year collectively," Dauda said.

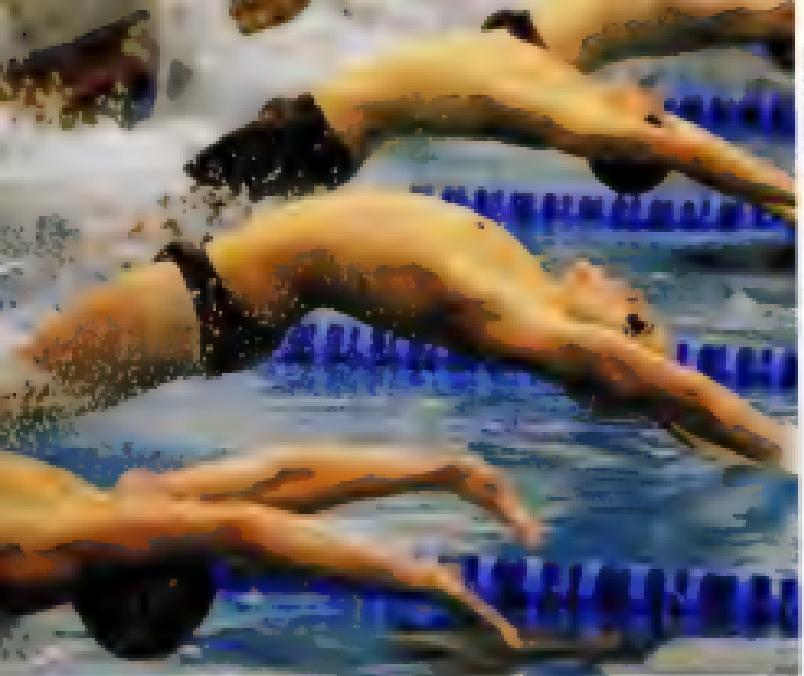

In addition to the coaches, the coaching staff was recognized as well. The CHU coaches were named Coaching Staff of the Year for the CAC.

In the end, the team came together and continued to lead the pack in both the regular season and end-of-the-year conference tournaments. Through talent and heart, the Ohio Northern Men's Swimming and Diving Team was able to come together and kick on their seventh consecutive conference championship.

"This really is the best that the team as a whole has ever done. We came together and worked as a team to accomplish our goals and dominate at the year's OAC Conference Meet," states Coach Paula and.

Top Notch

Ohio Northern Women's Swimming and Diving Dominates the OAC Championship Tournament.

After winning the Ohio Athletic Conference Tournament in three out of their last four appearances, the Ohio Northern Women's Swimming and Diving Team entered the 2011 tournament with one goal. They wanted to repeat their third consecutive OAC championship. After three days of competition they not only achieved the number one title but also much more.

The 2011 ONU team not only won the tournament but had a great overall showing both as a team and as individuals. The team ended the tournament with a total of 368 points which crushed the second place team, Miami University, by 103 points. Throughout the tournament, the team captured first place in eleven of the twenty events. Over the course of the three day tournament, the team broke six ONU records and seven OAC records. Junior Michelle Ruppel was praised in the 1,650 free champion with a time of 19:33.54 a mere .28 seconds ahead of teammate Mackenzie Hoffmann. Other new ONU record holder included Kaary Maaka who set new OAC and ONU records for the 200 breast stroke by more than a second with a time of 2:24.36.

The tournament championship was a result of a positive continuation between veteran, returning and motivated freshmen. "The team welcomed ten eager freshmen to the 2011 squad." The freshman class was a strong boost to the women's team. "We were very hungry to repeat our conference win or make it three in a row," Head Coach Brigitte Ewald said. Right away, the team consisting of all types of member was able to adapt. "I feel we put together the mix we needed at the right time. It's a great feeling to have some options of versatility on the women's side," Ewald added. The championship capped off a great season but the relationship and sacrifices the team made throughout the year made the achievement possible.

"Through the thick and thin...ups and downs, at the beginning of each 3 block day to the end of a long grueling race, the best feeling is looking around and knowing the teammates surrounding you are your family," Hoffmann said.

After the tournament, multiple swimmers were recognized for their great achievements and the even exceeded their season and competed nationally. Three swimmers made the NCAA National "B" cut this year. Among them were Hoffmann, Kaary Maaka and senior Hannah Beloway. With such a young, inexperienced team, one can only think of how far this team can grow over the seasons to come. Coach Ewald is eager to see what the future has in store for the women's program's representation at the national level.

"We had three NCAA cuts this year so it will be great to see how this young group puts together over the next few seasons," coach Ewald said.

In addition to national recognition, Kaary Shumate made history as the first ONU swimmer to win an event all four years at the tournament. Shumate also holds the most OAC Titles in the history of ONU Swimming & Diving with a total of fifteen titles. Not only swimmers but coaches were recognized this year as being at the top level. The coaching staff was named the "Coaching Staff of the Year" by the OAC.

Through hard work and determination, the 2011 Women's Swimming & Diving team set the bar at a new level securing their third consecutive OAC tournament championship and yet another regular season title. With a young team, the program has great potential for the years to come.

Ups and Downs

Men's baseball succeeds in out-of-conference games, while struggling with OAC games.

The Ohio Northern baseball team began their 2011 season with their spring trip to Myrtle Beach where they successfully started their record with a 5-0 winning streak. While at Myrtle Beach, Cory Martin and Craig Lempohl were given OAC Hitter of the Week and OAC Pitcher of the Week awards, respectively.

After the team returned from Myrtle Beach, they continued their success playing out-of-conference teams and compiling a record of 10. Their non-conference competition was Shippensburg, Marian, Baldwin, Ohio, Lima, Baldwin Wallace, Oberlin, Wittenberg, and Centenary. During that eleven game stretch, Cory Martin was awarded OAC Hitter of the Week for the second time in the season, a great honor.

The team started their OAC season off with a double-header against Capital University on April 2. They lost the first game of their double header, but won the second one, which earned their OAC record at 1-1. The team continued on their OAC games and kept games close in score throughout the season. The Polar Bears won games against Muskingum, Hiram, and Capital in their conference games.

Although they had some struggles throughout the season, they had a couple of major accomplishments as well. On April 15, Ohio Northern took a victory against Hiram, winning their second game against the team. Hiramberg is ranked 1st in the Ohio Athletic Conference. The team had many good plays throughout the season and also worked together as a team throughout the course season.

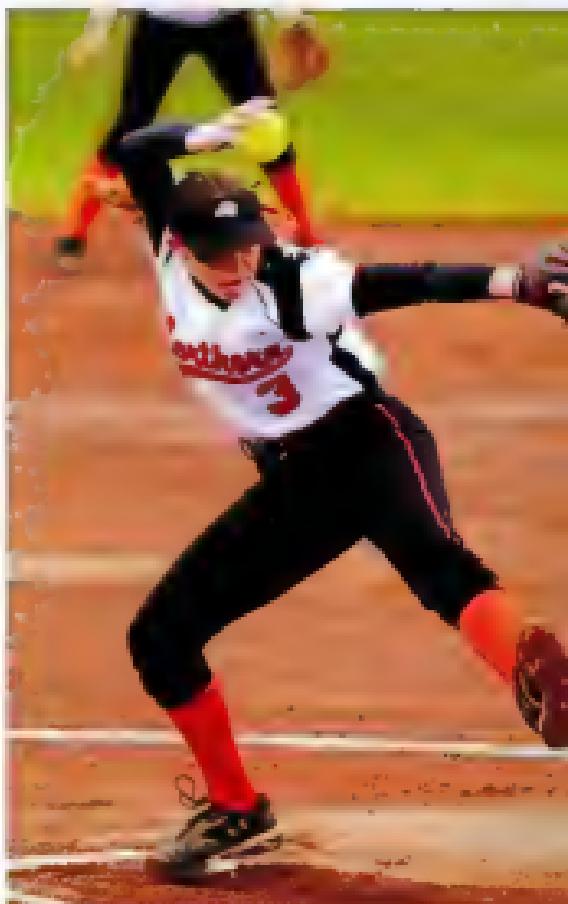

At the end of the ONU baseball season, the team earned a 19-19 record overall and a 4-14 record on the Ohio Athletic Conference.

High Recognition

Individual Talent Comes Together to Form a Great Ohio Northern Softball Team.

In many cases concerning teams, the team with the most talented individuals does not always win. Without the capability to work together and pull personal abilities together toward a common cause, a talented group of individuals will remain an average team. When a talented group works well together and builds off of each other, success is in their path. The 2009-2010 Ohio Northern Softball team's individual talents came together to form a great team based on a foundation of teamwork.

At the end of the year, and triple members of the ONU team were recognized for their outstanding abilities on the field. From batting averages to strike outs, multiple players rose above and beyond expectations. Their numbers, including senior second baseman Jackie Mangola, senior catcher Kland Blowers and freshman center fielder Chelsia Miller were voted first team all-OAC by the league's ten head coaches. Sophomore short stop Ashley Sajkiewicz was also named Honorable Mention all-OAC. Not only was Mangola named first team all-OAC, but the third time in her career but also an All-American and OAC Player of the Year for her second consecutive year. She is the first ONU player to ever win OAC Player of the Year his back to back seasons. Mangola's batting remained her greatest asset as clearly seen in her .477 batting average and 1.093 slugging percentage. In fact, Mangola broke two historical records in this single women. She currently holds the single-season home run record with 14. Mangold also broke the ODU career home run record with 79 early this year. The game record of 28 by one held by her sister, Elizabeth, was also broken on an All-American.

Rather than playing like individuals, the athletes came together and played each game as a team. This allowed the Bearcats to achieve multiple awards as a team in addition to individual recognitions. Under first-year head coach Eric Parker,

The Bears ended their regular season play as CMC Regular Season Co-Champions with a 10-1 record. This is the team's third straight title and fourth in the last five years. QMNU entered the UVa tournament as the No. 1 seed but fell in the semifinals to Baldwin Wallace 2-0 in straight sets. Although they lost in the finals, the Bears continued the tradition of excellence and made it third consecutive and an eighth overall, NCAA Team most appearance. Because they reached the finals of the tournament and were co-champions of the league, the Bears were awarded an automatic bid to the

Men's Golf Ends the Season in a Record Setting Fashion

As time went on in the season, it proved obvious that the 2008-09 Men's Golf team were improving. The team reached their full potential as time went on. The many hardwoughts both individual and as a team.

From the beginning of the season to the end, the team saw great improvement. Within the first few matches of the season, the team had only three negative finishes. The Bears placed 10th at the Del Norte Invitational, 11th at the Capital Classic, and third at an other Del Norte Invitational. However, the Bears turned the season around and finished first in their last three matches at the HeadBing Invitational, the CMC Spring Invite in California, and the Four Invitational in Indiana. The Bears ended their season finishing fourth at the CMC Tournament at Muskogee. Although a round short, the place shows the Bears continued their theme of improvement. The Bears moved from sixth place at the end of day two to fourth place at the end of day three or the end of the tournament.

These finishes were impressive for multiple reasons. In most sports, a team must make beat one other team. In the golf team wins however, you have to beat multiple competitions. At the CMC Spring Invite, the Bears beat over eight other schools. The Four Invitational was an even bigger win for UCM, as there were over schools. They defeated not only an UCM, as well but a round breaking victory. They came in at a 300 which beat Adelphi College of Michigan by one stroke. However, using the four man scoring system, the Bears scored only a 291, which beat the previous school record by one and a half points.

With more experience under their belts, the team broke not only team records but personal records as well. At the Four Invitational sophomore Tristen Ballinger tied a career low of 71 on one under par. This followed her to an individual win of 70 points. Senior Tom Reppeker finished his round of 100, his last golfer at the CMC, although not in year old 100 points for the second year in a row. Reppeker is the first Polar Bear to earn All-Region honors for their conference in some time. Bill Fischer (2003). In addition to upperclassmen, freshmen stepped this season to help lead the team to victory. Freshman Colin Bates was awarded 10th. Player of the Week twelve times throughout the season. In fact, he broke the school record for discs six times at the HeadBing Invitational. Bates scored a 77 of 144 to win the tournament by eight strokes and beat the previous record by two strokes. He was close to breaking the lowest eighteen hole score at a high school as well. At this tournament, Bates, Reppeker, and Ballinger were placed on the All-Tournament team.

This year marked another successful season for the Men's Golf Team. Although they fell short of the top spot at the CMC tournament, they continued to improve throughout the year and set the single season victory record by winning 63 games. They beat the previous record of 56 which was held by the 2007 squad.

Men's Golf Team
The men's golf team finished the year with a record of 63 wins and 12 losses. They beat the previous record of 56 wins set by the 2007 team. The team finished the year with a 291, which beat the previous school record by one and a half points.

Women's Golf Shoots the Season Strong and Finishes Third in OAC

The women's golf team started off the season strong with their opening match at the Welsh Fall Classic tournament. Emily Gorden placed fourth overall with a score of 88-96 = 184. Also placing in the top ten was senior Ashley Johnson with an 82 - 174 and freshman Lauren Scherk with an 88-89 = 174. Johnson placed ninth, while Scherk finished in tenth place. Ohio Northern's final score in this tournament was 145-140 = 285 which put them at second place overall in the tournament.

After finishing with place at the DePauw tournament, the Lady Polar Bears came out on top and placed first in the Hinsdale Fall Invitational. Johnson placed first with a score of an 84-88 = 172 on a par 71 course while Mark says 44 in 120 to finish fourth. The Polar Bears finished their fall season with a fourth place win at the Wittenberg Fall Invitational.

To start off the spring season, the ladies tied for fourth place out of twelve teams at the Capital Purple and White Invitational. Their final score was 250-262 = 712 to tie for fourth place with Indiana Tech. Johnson once again finished in the top five with a score of 88-90 = 174 on the par-70 course to take the fourth place spot. The home in national for the season's down was supposed to say the least. The team finished second with a score of 144 and seniors Ashley Johnson and freshman Lucy Mark earned All Tournament honors. Johnson placed second overall in the tournament. The team finished off the season with a first, second, third, and fourth place in the remaining tournaments.

The OAC tournament was held at Mount L. Lamborn this year, and the team finished strong with a third place tie and a score of 345 (30-185). Junior Paris Gorden placed second overall. Gorden shot a 21 over par 80-83 = 163 to tie for second out of 42 golfers. As the year comes to an end, the Lady Polar Bears will continue to work hard and strive to reach first place next year in the OAC conference tournament.

Men's Tennis

The Men's Tennis team gives 100% and comes out ahead.

Most people think of the major sports such as football or basketball when they talk about college level athletics. However, the Ohio Northern men's tennis team has been showing outstanding results for the past few years. They have had a thirty-six year winning streak during their time here on campus, which is a huge accomplishment in the athletic department. Since 1990, the men's tennis team has won eight OAC tournament championships, and five regular season championships. The team started off the year strong at the Wittenberg Invitational. Senior Nick Kowalczyk made it to the semi final round in singles while Blake Trotter won his flight in singles to put the team at the lead. Andrew Kanta and freshman Paul Swanson played doubles and were the runner ups by defeating Northwestern Ohio 8-2 and Wittenberg 8-4. However, they lost in the final round to Ohio Dominican with a score of 8-8.

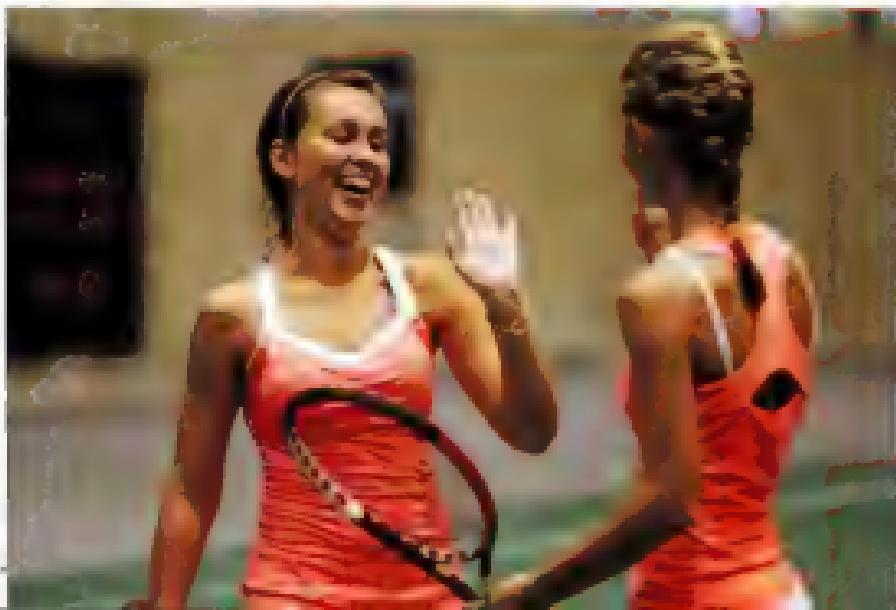

Throughout the season, the men's tennis team only lost three matches total to Northwest Ohio Division, and in the Webber International tournament. There were also several matches in the second part of the season where they swept the other team 9-0. In the OAC quarterfinal round, the team swept Muskingum with a final score of 5-0 which allowed them to move on to the semi round. The semifinals against Baldwin Wallace were no match for the men's team as they won with a score of 3-1. The final round of the OAC tournament placed another victory on the bear's record for the second year in a row. The final score was 5-0 in the match against John Carroll. As the number one seed in the league, the men's team finished their conference season with a 17-3 record.

The number one doubles team of junior Nick Kowalczyk and sophomore Joey Frank ended the season with a personal score of 16-3, and the number two doubles team of freshman De Thal and partner Michael Rafferty had a personal score of 10-3. The bears will be attending the final NCAA division III tournament on Friday May 13th in hopes of winning the division title.

Power of Youth

Ohio Northern Women's Tennis Find Success Despite Lack of Upperclassmen

Leadership in sports can be seen at all levels of competition. In most cases, senior leadership reigns and it is the role of the upperclassmen to lead the new players to success in a positive environment. This year's Women's Tennis team however turned to a much younger crowd for their leadership. With a team of seven new freshmen and only two returning players, it is up to sophomores Chrissy Gales and Kristi Prevor to lead the youthful team back to yet another successful season.

Although the Bears may be inexperienced, they showed the confidence that seniors don't bring you success. Right from the start, the team showed the lineage they came to play. Throughout the season, the team not only won 19 matches but also swept the competition 4-0 on thirteen different occasions. Despite their youthfulness, the Bears recorded another winning season along with a regular season conference title. The Bears completed the conference competition during regular season play and ended with a 9-0 Ohio Athletic Conference record. This role allowed them to enter the OAC tournament with a No. 1 seed.

As the number one seed, the Bears enjoyed the OAC Tournament with a bang. After a 3-0 quarterfinal victory over Wittenberg, ONU advanced to the semifinals against Oberlin. This match was a much rougher challenge as it all came down to the last Rak's No. 6 singles match. After taking the first set 6-3 but falling in the second 2-6, Rak found himself down 3-2 in the final set. Despite the deficit, Rak took the game into his own hands and won the next five games, and the 3-4 win. In the finals, the Bear faced Baldwin Wallace but fell short to the No. 2 seed.

The seven new freshmen played far beyond their years of experience. From the very beginning, they showed the confidence that ONU was not a team to take lightly. Freshman Michelle Toma was awarded the OAC Women's Tennis Player of the Week twice. Toma claimed both No. 1 doubles with freshman Carly Olmstead and No. 1 singles. Although the freshmen have really stepped up to the plate, it would not have been possible without the help of the experienced paving the way and showing them the ropes. Sophomore Chrissy Gales was named OAC player of the week in April after going undefeated against Central State and Marietta.

Despite the OAC Tournament final loss, the young team has much to be proud of this 2011 season. With the entire team returning next year, they will be able to pick up right where they left off at the top of the table in the Ohio Athletic Conference. With a year of experience behind the team, there is only room for improvement for an already talented group of individuals.

The Men's Track Team Steps Up to the Challenge for the 2011 Season

Having seven indoor All-OAC athletes and an indoor OAC win, the 2011 Men's Track and Field team continued its dominance the season, ending with a record of 41-6 in indoor and 23-6 outdoor record. Head coach Jason Massi shared the team's success by saying, "The Men's team had a pretty successful year, capping off by winning their 4th consecutive Indoor OAC Championship. There were several great performances at both OAC championship meets. It was a total team effort at the indoor meet." OAC champions include Corban Bailey (800), Austin Dickman (10k), Andrew Schuab (600 yd dash), and Duane Smith (16, 34, 34). 3rd overall, out of 10 teams, at the outdoor Conference meet. Though winning has made the men a respectable team, their success also came down to how they worked together off the track. "I consider ask for a better season. I ran some of the best times of my life and had a great time doing it. Through the four years here, I've made so many friends with countless memories. Looking back on it now, success wasn't always a measure of whether we won or lost, it was about spending time with the people who were closest to you," said Jared Simon as he reflected on his time spent as part of the ONU Men's Track and Field team.

Women's Track raises and meets their new expectations.

With a smaller group and many athletes injured, the ONU Women's Track and Field team sought to overcome adversity during the 2011 indoor and outdoor seasons. Starting out the season with a 2nd and 3rd place overall team finish at both home indoor meets, and a 3rd place overall overall at the first outdoor meet, the Lady Polar Bears did their best to build a strong foundation for the rest of their season. "The Women's team was plagued with numerous stops and starts throughout. Those who did compete at the OAC championship meets performed above and beyond expectations. We had several conference champions and All-OAC performers that year," said head coach Jason Massa, as he explained how the team performed. Mallory Bloom finished the indoor 10k with a 1st place, and Alison Steinbrenner finished 1st in both the 16 and 3k during the outdoor season. All-OAC athletes were Lydia Weener and Kelly Cawthon. "This season was amazing, not because of racing fast or placing high, but because of the teammates that pushed me every step of the way," Weener shared. However, individual efforts were not enough to help lead the Bears to victory in the end. The Women finished 6th out of 10 teams at the indoor Conference meet, and 10th at the outdoor Conference meet.

Just for Kicks

Intramural Sports Serve as an Outlet for CMU Students Who Work and Study Hard.

Every year, students come to college and want to join the many activities that the campus offers. With the twenty-one different varsity sports that Ohio Northern offers, it is a difficult decision to decide whether or not to play the sport that students did in their high school days. It is believed that playing a sport might take up too much time and distract from one's studies. That is why intramurals are a popular choice among students.

In intramurals, there is not as great of a time commitment as a varsity sport, but students are still able to participate in a sport they love. There are almost as many intramural sports as there are varsity sports, so the options are limited as to which activity to play. Usually the hours of each sport get together once or twice a week, depending on the schedule of participants.

Intramural sports give students a chance to compete with other college teams. However, intramurals do not come with the stress and commitment of a varsity division III sport. Student athletes choose intramural sports as a way to have fun in the competition. This allows for an excellent extracurricular experience and a break from the monotony of studying.

Many intramural athletes are involved in other campus activities which require time and commitment. Michael Buzza, a senior music education major, spends the majority of his time helping musical theatre productions and singing in the Men's Chorus and University Singers. Intramurals are also on this list of his activities, proving that any person in any major can enjoy the outlet that intramural sports gives them.

Like varsity sports, intramural sports have different seasons students can sign up for. Volleyball seems to be the most popular among the various intramural sports here at Ohio Northern. Junior Mike Webb says that he enjoys playing intramural volleyball because "There is no conditioning practice, which is very nice! Also, getting to play with your friends, and actually having fun is really important as well. Another great thing about intramurals is that everyone is allowed to play and no one gets cut from a team."

CMU strives to embrace diversity, and intramurals bring out students from all backgrounds and academic areas. These students bond and establish friendship based on similar interests. Without the option of intramural sports, students would not be able to come together and play an organized sport for the fun of it. Practices for intramural sports are only a few times a week, and they fit nicely around class and activity schedules.

With the option of joining and trying out intramural sports, CMU students gain friendships and are able to just have a good time. They learn more about a sport they love and are able to spend time with people who share the same interest. From volleyball to soccer, there is definitely a spot on the team for everyone.

"Getting to play with your friends and actually having fun is really important."

-Mike Webb, Junior

Men's Rugby Undefeated in Regular Season and Wins Division II Championship

Every year is a success and a year for the men and women of Ohio Northern's Black Rose Rugby team. With the fall's season conclusion came a proud victory for the men's team. They finished their regular fall season with a perfect record of 8-0. On November 6, 2016, the men battled for their hard-earned title of Ohio Rugby Union Division III Champions and defeated the University of Kentucky with a final score of 34-22 and a flawless team record of 8-0.

Although their naming one DIII team senior Tim Smith sophomore Cody Mirek and juniors Allen Mailli and Kacy Thresher Senior Management major Joshua Rana scored victories, while senior Ryan Captain and president Robert Major scored three of six consecutive wins.

This is a great victory for our team and a historic victory for the Black Rose rugby program," says Major. "I consider it the most proudest of all the hard work and dedication put forth by our team this year to bring a state championship to ONU."

This year the team was dedicated to uniting and working as one team and distributing the winning among the players.

"From the first day of practice we've been creating an unified team plan," explained Black Rose coach Robert Kast-

ing. "Our players working at a game like this shows how well the team gels together."

The Women's Black Rose rugby team started the season with a good struggle despite a loss to Ashland. The team followed through and defeated Oberlin, Hiram and Kent State sending them all the way to the Ohio Rugby Union DIII tournament in early August. Although they lost against Wittenberg, the young rugby team was a learning experience for the women. They played almost exclusively Division II teams, including Walsh, Denison, Shippensburg, Clinton, Dayton and Wright State. The women finished out the season with a regular record of 3-1 and an overall record of 4-4.

A key player this year was senior Lauren Neely setting up and scoring the majority of the points this year. She helped the Black Roses out of many binders when they were deep in their own field. Club president, senior Bee Daniel has been the glue that helps hold the team together. The team has had a great learning experience this year raising their level of dedication to themselves and each other. They have encouraged new women to play the team and learn the complex but rewarding game of rugby.

The Ultimate Dream

It has been an eventful year for the ONU Dark Side and Light Side ultimate frisbee teams. The men's team had a successful regular season, with wins in outnumbering losses. The ONU-hosted tournaments featured men's teams from Kenyon College, Oberlin College, Ohio Northern University, Ohio Wesleyan University, Xavier University, Denison University, College of Wooster, and Capital University and women's teams from Ohio Northern, College of Wooster, Oberlin College, Ohio Wesleyan University, Kenyon College, and Denison University. They also finished in second place at a Miami University tournament that featured 18 teams. Going into the tournament, the men held a record of 13-6.

Men's captains, senior Andrew Marshall and senior Ryan Brueck (both engineering majors), and #4 Nate Heidrich led the team to victory. The women's team was led by senior engineering major Alicia Hathaway and #2 Kaitlin Bellinger.

The Ohio Valley Conference Champscoosing Coordinator title was given to #2 Cindy Brusato through USA Ultimate for the 2011 college series. This position holds her responsible at Division III women's conference tournaments for Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. Brusato served as the tournament director for the Ohio Valley Conference Tournaments.

Ultimate Frisbee requires speed, agility, and skill. The men and women of ONU's ultimate frisbee teams have definitely demonstrated these qualities and were able to bring the season to a successful end.
